NEW COURT HEAD IN LATEST POSE

GOVERNOR NICE JOHN P. HIGGINS

This picture of Congressman John P. Higgins, new chief justice of the Massachusetts Superior Court, was made yesterday, as he sat with Governor Harry W. Nice of Maryland at a national governors conference at Atlantic City. Higgins attended the conference as personal representative of Governor Hurley, who today named him to the post left vacant by retirement of Chief Justice Walter Perley Hall.

HURLEY PICKS HIGGINS TO HEAD COURT

In what is considered a surprise move, the governor made his selection over three other men who were prominently mentioned for the place.

All of these, including Higgins, were an integral part of the brain trusting machine which put Governor Hurley in the State House last fall.

The position pays $15,000 a year.

As the announcement was made, Congressman Higgins had just left Atlantic City, where he was visiting, for Washington.

He was at the Jersey resort representing Governor Hurley at the 1937 governor's convention, and went to Washington to confer with President Roosevelt.

Favorites for the nomination besides Higgins had been Judge Joseph W. Monahan, of Probate Court; John B. Maloney, the Governor's secretary, and William

BLACK FIGHT SPREADS IN BAY STATE

While President Roosevelt waited in vain for a reply from Senator Hugo L. Black to charges he is a life member of the Ku Klux Klan, leaders in political life in Massachusetts and throughout the nation today took steps to block Black's taking the final oath as a member of the United States Supreme Court.

"Deny the charges or quit!" was the general demand as Black, vacationing in London with his wife, adamantly refused to deny or affirm the charges.

It is purported that documentary proof can be brought forward to prove that Black signed a life membership in the Klan.

Ex-Convict Tells Of Killing Boy

BEAT VICTIM WITH HEAVY AUTO JACK

By FRANK C. McLEAN

Laconia, N. H., Sept. 15—Howard Long, 32, a parolee from the Dodge water (Mass.) State Hospital for mental defectives, today confessed he killed little Mark Neville, Jensen, 10, of Gilford, with an auto jack during an attempted sex attack.

Long, who served a sentence for a sex crime in Concord reformatory, gave a signed confession of the boy's murder to authorities after he had been grilled constantly for 15 hours in the police station in Gilford. He told a quarter of a mile from the dead boy's home.

"I tried to get fresh with him. He fought like the devil. I killed him to keep him quiet. I hit him with the automobile jack and threw his body into the bushes," Attorney-General Thomas Cheney quoted Long as saying.

The prisoner was speedily arraigned in municipal court, where he pleaded not guilty and was held without bail for the October term of superior court.

ACTION FILED BY OWNER OF SHARES

Providence, R. I., Sept. 15—Disrupting a State Racing Commission hearing on six charges filed against Walter E. O'Hara and the Narragansett Racing Association, Inc., former Probate Court Judge Henry E. Crowe today submitted a stockholder's petition in Rhode Island Superior Court to throw the association into a temporary receivership.

The former justice, who stated in the petition that he held 1000 of the 350,000 outstanding shares of stock, alleged that the bitter politico-racing feud between O'Hara and Governor Robert E. Quinn had impaired the value of the stock.

Should a receiver be appointed he asks Jeremiah E. O'Connell on Crowe's petition aimed to protect his own interest. It would automatically oust O'Hara as president and managing director of the track.

This action would take the proposed ousting of O'Hara from the hands of the Quinn-controlled racing commission, whose hearing was temporarily adjourned by news of the new court move.

COUNSEL MEET MOVE

Immediately after the petition was filed Laurence and Edward Hogan, attorneys for O'Hara and the association, and Raymond T. McMahon, general counsel for the

Divorcee's Snub Leads Clerk to Kill Self

Pittsfield, Sept. 15 (AP)—Millard Weld, 32, a store clerk, shot himself through the heart today. Police Chief John F. Sullivan said, after a Pittsfield divorcee failed to answer a message he sent to her in a local mill. Weld died almost instantly.

Sullivan said Weld sent a message to the young divorcee threatening to kill himself in 10 minutes if she did not come out of the mill to see him. She failed to heed his warning, Sullivan said, and Weld shot himself.

The young gwoman told Sullivan, he said, that she sent a note last night to Weld, who was separated from his wife, that their friendship must cease.

Quiz New Suspect in Slaying of Dr. Webster

Providence, R. I., Sept. 15—A new suspect in the two-month-old slaying of Dr. George W. Webster was taken into custody today and questioned exhaustively in a police station in an out-of-the-way corner of the city.

Police admitted the development was the most important since the prominent East Side physician was shot to death in the vestibule of his home on the early morning of July 16.

The suspect was described as a New Bedford man, member of a military unit in that city.

He was seized within four blocks of the spot where the steel-jacketed bullets of the type used by Dr. Webster's murderer were found.

association, rushed from the State House hearing to the courthouse and went into conference with Judge O'Connell.

Also present at the conference to determine the outcome of the petition were State Attorney-General John P. Feeley and Lieutenant-Governor Raymond S. Jordan, representing the Governor.

Judge O'Connell, after the discussion, told Judge Keenan to issue a petition being known as No. 1 to the court appointing as receiver Judge Carroll Allen, provided the duke's attorney approves the nuptial contract.

KIERNAN KEEPS SEAT

Refusing to quit the State House for a prearranged call, the commission proceedings, the principals heard Chairman Patrick J. Kiernan rule on a motion by association attorneys that the legislative hirelings bring testimony he had publicly expressed bias.

Judge O'Connell, before whom he appeared in the action, is the same ranking member of the Superior Court bench who on Sept. 4 vacated a restraining order against the commission's project-ed ouster proceedings against O'Hara.

News of the latest legal development in the battle of the racing czars burst 30 minutes after the commission hearing had convened for the day.

It was revealed when Chairman Patrick J. Kiernan halted the proceedings to allow attorneys present to attend a matter pending in Superior Court.

Throughout the session, Kiernan, sitting in the chair he vacated to preside over the hearing, "got wise and lay off" or you will find a bomb in your car!" He told a Boston Traveler reporter:

"I have received no such threats in the past few days. As far as I know, there have been no threats to place a bomb in my automobile. As a matter of fact, the car is in the garage and his not been tampered with."

However, friends of the chief executive declared that such a threat had been received and that the governor's vehicle and those of keeping a constant vigil at his other high officials connected with the bitter racing feud have been trailed by mysterious autos.

Large numbers of state police have been observed near Quinn

At this point, McMahon took up the cudgels and asked that a matter of record be made that the O'Hara group had made a proffer of proof connected with the motion and had asked that witnesses be heard.

He was told by the solon:

"Your proffer of proof is denied. You can offer any testimony in your possession on this motion before the supreme court; and in that case I will probably be able to appear as a witness."

RECALLS AUDITOR

He then recalled State Auditor Anthony to the stand to examine his testimony.

The court action, meanwhile, had created a storm of comment in Providence.

Informed sources said that Judge Crowe, a prominent Republican and unsuccessful candidate for State Treasurer, was a close friend of the Hogan brothers. The petitioner is from Pawtucket, political stronghold of the racing czar.

PAROLED MAN CONFESSES HE KILLED BOY

since he came here in 1935, following his parole from Bridgewater, had insisted during the first 11 hours of his grilling that he was innocent of any connection with the boy's murder.

But at 2 o'clock this morning he muttered to Police Chief George N. Hubbard of Laconia:

"Maybe my automobile struck him."

Police many hours before had seized Long's automobile and had discovered it had been in an accident, and there was evidence of human blood stains. When he had been questioned previously about the stains he explained them as being rust stains caused by the boiling over of his radiator.

First intimation that Long, who had succeeded in concealing from his Alling neighbors the story of his past record as a sex criminal, may have been connected with the Jensen boy's killing came when John Murphy, attached to the office of the Massachusetts Department of Corrections, telephoned to the authorities here and suggested that Long be picked up.

Rushing to the man's home, police found Kenneth Prime who lives in the house and a woman whose name the police have refused to reveal. Long was out.

Prime and the woman were taken to police headquarters and there both informed the officers that Long had remained away from home until 4 o'clock on Saturday morning, the day the boy's body was found.

POLICE SET TRAP

They also pointed out that he had changed the original mat in his automobile and that the tools were missing. They had noticed, too, that there had been a fire in the cushion of the front seat of the vehicle.

Prime was permitted to return to the house and he had barely arrived when Long walked into the police trap which had been set for his return. Being held from the house to be questioned by the police, he called back to Prime, saying:

"Remember, I was home here all Friday night."

Police immediately took Prime back to police headquarters for further questioning.

The automobile was taken to the police station and it was there that the marks of blood were found on the dented fender and bent back registration plate.

For many hours Long denied he had ever seen the Jensen boy. He was put in the custody of Gilfoil on Friday night, and the dents in the mudguard fender and the "pate leaf" occurred several weeks before, he insisted.

Finally Long volunteered the information that he had been driving his automobile and frightened he had carried his body into the woods and left it in the bushes.

An hour later just before three o'clock this morning he gave what Attorney Sheehy said was his confession of murder.

Long's alleged confession was as follows:

WANTED A RIDE

"I was driving my car along the highway through Gilford last Friday night going towards Alton. As I came near Union street I saw the little boy step out and wave his hand at me as though he wanted a ride.

"I stopped the car and I asked him where he was going. I don't remember exactly what he said, but he let me know he wanted a ride.

"I said 'get in and I'll give you a ride.' He got into the front seat of the car. I don't remember anything about the dress of his mother's and I can't remember seeing any letter.

"I guess it must have been about six o'clock when he got into the car because I know it was about half past six when I decided to drive back towards Gilford.

"I came him a ride around the back roads of Alton and then I drove back to Gilford by the back roads. I didn't want anybody to see the boy with me because I knew then would remember he was with me.

"I drove him into a wood road that led to where he was found. I stopped the car there and I made an excuse to get out of the machine.

"When I got out I made an excuse to get him to leave the car and he came over towards me. Then I tried to get fresh with him. He started to fight.

"I grabbed him and he began to fight. I don't know how long the struggle lasted. He scratched me and he tore my shirt. I hit him several times and he went limp. I reached into the rear of my car and I took the jack out of it.

"I held the jack by the screw part—the part you turn to raise the car to fix a tire and then I hit him several times with that.

"Then everything went blank."

"I got into the car and drove like anything to Alton, but I didn't go right home. I guess I wandered around the countryside all night. I can't remember what I did after I hit the boy on the head with the jack."

Stirred, apparently, by the threat of District Attorney William J. Foley to drive their man out of second place in the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser straw ballot supporters of School Commissioner Maurice J. Tobin today poured scores of votes into the offices of these newspapers.

As a result Tobin again was close at the heels of former Governor Jaime M. Curley, leader in the tabulation, and held a substantial lead over Foley.

Former Representative Alfred Santosuosso, remained in fourth place as his supporters continued to register their belief that he is one of the outstanding participants in the contest.

The bulk of the Santosuosso vote today came from East Boston, Hyde Park and Dorchester.

Former Governor Curley showed great strength in Dorchester and Charlestown today.

The new Tobin sweep came from Roxbury, Brighton, West Roxbury, and from Hyde Park where many of the leaders within the last 24 hours.

MANSER IS FILED

The name of Charles L. Manser is added to the list of avowed candidates today, bringing the total to 14.

Manser, a bitter foe of Mayor Mansfield, entered the contest late yesterday when he made application to the municipal election commission for nomination papers. He is a registered Republican.

The seven other candidates for the mayoralty received slight vote today although that half of the field continued to be left by Carleton L. Brett of Dorchester, who has repeatedly declared himself to be the Social Justice candidate.

It appears that all members of the organization are not in agreement concerning the Brett candidacy, a communication received today from Patrick A. Byrnes of 440 East Eighth street, South Boston, wondering pro tem of Bishop Michael J. Gallagher Council, National Union for Social Justice.

Byrnes wrote, in part: "The National Union for Social Justice as an organization has not, and will not endorse any candidate for political office. We respectfully request that you make early publication of this fact."

ELECTION NIGHT

Readers of the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser will be kept fully posted on returns immediately. With Election Day, November 2 less than seven weeks away, the mayoralty contest has become a topic of conversation wherever voters gather.

It is the desire of the editors of the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser to present to their subscribers a true picture of the strength of each of the candidates.

As has been stated repeatedly the balloting is being conducted with fairness and if any candidate appears to be weaker than his friends know him to be the fault is theirs for failing to mail their votes to the offices of these newspapers.

The ballot is not to be used to boost the political fortunes of any candidate. Readers are urged to forward his or her ballot today with a cross beside the name of each school. Where an X is not put in the ballot will be properly recorded and a true report given daily as to the progress made by the candidates.

CONG. HIGGINS NAMED TO SUPERIOR COURT

Henchey, the Hurley campaign manager.

FUROR IN COUNCIL

No sooner had the nomination been announced when rumors aroused out of the State House that Governor Hurley's decision had caused a furore in the executive council.

Certain members of the council held to the belief that senior members of the superior court should have had first consideration for the rank of chief justice.

Forty-four years old, Higgins is the youngest man in the history of Massachusetts to be elevated to the bench.

Average age of the personnel on the Superior Court bench is 60 years.

LOMASNEY PROPHECY

The rise of John Patrick Higgins goes back to the death-bed prophecy of Martin Lomasney, for 40 years the political "Mahatma" of the West End, who said:

'Higgins cannot fail to make his mark."

Born in the West End a Harvard graduate, Higgins first attracted attention when he tried to link the Lomasney political dread-nought.

Against Lomasney's hand-picked slate he ran as an independent candidate for the House of Representatives.

He lost in a two-day marathon but put up such a good fight that Lomasney decided he would not risk his opposition a second time and took him into camp.

Now serving his second term in Congress, John Patrick Higgins is an accomplished orator. He was majority floor leader during the administration of former Governor Joseph B. Ely and soon made himself known in the House with his well-oiled logic and sharp-witted oratory.

Ex-Governor Ely considered Higgins an expert on state banking laws and constantly turned over reams of intricate financial legislation to him. As a trustee of large funds Higgins did still active labor legislation.

From the beginning Higgins was a self-made man. He decided on higher education, enrolled in Harvard without cash, and made enough to pay it at the end of the first term by displaying agility as a brakeman on the Narrow Gauge railroad.

WAR VETERAN

After graduation from Harvard he dabbled in chemical analysis, then went to war in 1917 as paymaster in the navy.

He returned to study law. Again menus cash, he turned to clerical jobs attending Boston University and Northeastern Law School.

In less than 18 months he passed the bar examination and was admitted to practice.

For a time he served as assistant to the rehabilitation officer of the Veterans Bureau in this city and is prominent today in the American Legion.

Higgins lives in Hancock street, West End, with his wife Eleanor McNamara Higgins and their eight-year-old daughter, Eleanor.

Governor Hurley also submitted today the name of former Governor Fred G. Allen of Norwood, for reappointment as a member of the state unemployment compensation commission.

FORESTERS' TRUSTEE

The most important of Higgins' recent duties was in connection with the $4,500,000 of funds of the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters. He is also active in the financial affairs of the American Legion and in other fraternal organizations.

In Congress Higgins was known to thousands of veterans as their champion. He has been a delegate to several national American Legion conventions.

Governor Hurley's latest judicial appointment will be the fifth active in Suffolk county.

Judge Michael Jacob Sullivan has lived in the West End all his life. His daughter is a student at St. Joseph's school. Miss Sullivan and Miss Higgins and Eleanor are at present in Washington waiting for a true report given daily as to the progress made by the candidates lice took the suspect to the Chadburne police station, in a remote northeast section of the city.

Early this afternoon, five hours after his apprehension, the suspect was still being questioned.

The sensation in the New Bedford man ended a prolonged lull in the investigation into the murder, which shocked Providence early this summer.

Three .45 calibre bullets were fired into Dr. Webster's body shortly after he had left his automobile outside his Eastside Elmhine street residence.

Before leaving his home the 39-year-old physician had spent the latter part of the evening in a nearby drugstore, police established.

As the gunman fled from the neighborhood, Dr. Webster was removed to Homeopathic Hospital where he died on the operating table—his lips forever sealed as to the identity of the slayer.

During the early days of the inquiry, a number of persons were interrogated.

One of the first theories was that the doctor had been killed for "welching" on gambling bets. Police said he owed thousands of dollars in gambling debts and had plunged recklessly in order to recoup the enormous losses.

POPE To Resume DUTIES

SENDS LETTER TO PACELLI

(Copyright 1937, by International News Service)

Castel Gandolfo, Sept. 15 (INS)—With a prayer of gratitude for having been spared to carry on his work as head of the Catholic church, Pope Pius today advised Secretary of State Pacelli he will resume in full his duties as Pontiff.

The Pope's first action with return of his former vigor was to assume for himself the duties of the late Cardinal Boselli as secretary of the two congregations of universities and seminaries. Cardinal Boselli died recently of pneumonia.

LETTER TO PACELLI

Pope Pius' spokesman, Count Nobili-Vitelleschi, refused to reveal the contents of the letter which Pius wrote to Pacelli in which he stated:

"Perhaps thus the divine goodness will acknowledge our humble proposal not to shirk our sacred duties, neither work nor pain, for the church and for souls; perhaps thus He will see us ready to cooperate in every opportunity for the good of the souls of the faithful—this we have been able to do with the intercession of the prayers of innumerable Catholics and with the intercession of Saint Theresa, conceding to us this return of strength and vigor."

This personal, intimate letter, which passed between the Holy Father and his secretary of state, clearly demonstrated the Pontiff's confidence in the latter's loyalty and affection for the Pope.

It was considered that the Pope has no intention of adopting any new policies, but will continue as he has in the past.

The Pontiff will carry on active pontifical duties, receiving visitors, saying mass and dominating events in the world now looks forward to a brilliant career for the Pope as the leader of the church. In addition to Cardinal Boselli's duties, Pope Pius has absorbed many of the duties of the late Cardinal Gasparri.

PLANS VATICAN RETURN

Pope Pius planned to return to the Vatican palace on Wednesday, it was announced. Mgr. Francesco Borgongini-Duca, papal secretary of state, said the Pope would return to the Vatican. It was believed he would be driven to the Vatican by the end of September.

Various household activities are already clearing and scrubbing in the pontifical apartments.

BEAUTY QUEEN "UNDER WRAPS"

Not even the severe cold which caused her to pose all wrapped up, for this picture, could dim the smile or lessen the beauty of blonde, 17-year-old Bette Cooper, who "walked out" on Atlantic City's bathing beauty contest after winning the title, "Miss America." Cameramen finally found her at her Hackettstown, N. J., home, convalescing from her attack of the sniffles.

Enrollment In Colleges Started

First of 50,000 Students in Boston

Straggling groups of wide-eyed freshmen made their yearly appearance along Tremont and Boylston streets once again today, presaging the influx of thousands of students at schools and colleges throughout New England.

Approximately 50,000 students will enroll in higher educational institutions of the greater Boston area this year, with opening dates delayed as late as Sept. 27, when Harvard, Radcliffe and M. I. T. will start enrollments.

Simmons and Regis Colleges, the University of New Hampshire and University of Vermont were enrolling freshmen students today, with University of Maine and St. Michaels College, Winooski Park, Vt., also opening their portals.

A new faculty-adviser system is scheduled for Brown University at Providence, opening Sept. 22.

Other local college openings are Boston University and Tufts College on Sept. 29, with Wellesley and Wheaton, Sept. 21.

Despite adoption of a more selective method of admission and increased tuition rates, approximately 1,000 students from all parts of the world presented themselves at Simmons College when registration was opened.

Among the first students to register this week were girls from 26 states, Canada and Mexico. From Japan, Mona of the registrants were from California and from Massachusetts.

HER FIRST JOB AT COLLEGE

College days are near at hand. At Simmons, in the Back Bay, registration was in progress. Classes will be in full swing early next week. Miss Anne Tutko, of Lawrence, lost no time. Having been assigned a room she is unpacking grips. Decorating was then in order.

2 MILLIONS GET U. S. RELIEF

Two million persons will receive relief assistance, the first of whom will benefit from federal, state and city funds amounting to a statement made here today by Lewis Douglas, director of the federal budget.

The cost to the federal government would come up to almost 3 billion dollars, Douglas said, in addition to the half billion dollars which the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works has already spent.

The appropriation of $4,880,000,000 by Congress on June 30 was divided between the two agencies.

"When we consider that in 12 years federal old-age benefits payments will be about seven billion annually," he said, "we might reasonably expect the burden to the states to be lightened."

400 High School Pupils Strike in Nashua, N.H.

Nashua, N. H., Sept. 15 (AP)—About 400 Nashua high school and junior high students, including 45 girls who were expelled last week with parents, stayed out of schools Tuesday. Two were absent.

Leaders said they were opposed to the extension of the school hour from 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m.

While about 400 students declared they would remain out of classes until their demands were considered, others returned to their studies despite threats of Principals Walter S. Nemsith of the High school and Murray B. Wright of the Junior High that striking students would have suspension.

Slayer Hangs Self In His Death Cell

San Quentin, Calif., Sept. 15 (INS)—Awaiting the date of his execution for four days, Frank Estrada, 45, wife murderer, today hanged himself in his cell in "condemned row" here, Estrada was to be hanged Friday morning.

3rd Income Tax Installment Due

Anticipating a last minute rush, extra clerks were placed on duty in the internal revenue collector's office in the Federal building today. Today was the last payment of the third quarter Federal income tax installment. The fourth installment is due December 15.

Find Cryptic Note, Body of Man

An unidentified man about 50 years old was found drowned in Jamaica Pond, at the foot of Pond st., Jamaica Plain, today, according to police.

On the shore near where the body was discovered by Mrs. Elizabeth Curtin, who operates a refreshment stand at the pond, was a pipe and wallet and a cryptic note, reading:

"I hope you're satisfied now. —Teddy."

The missive contained a Bay st. address. Police checked the address in an attempt to establish the dead man's identity.

He was about 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighed 170 pounds and wore dark clothes.

Critics Demand Roosevelt Ask Black to Quit

Washington, Sept. 15 (INS)—President Roosevelt made it plain today he expects Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black of Alabama to answer the charge of having once accepted a life membership in the Ku Klux Klan.

Speculation was rife as to what steps the President might take in event Black refuses to discuss the issue after returning from a European holiday or calmly admits Klan membership.

There was conflicting belief as to whether the President, under such circumstances, would ask him to resign from the Supreme Court upon the ground he had withheld vital information about his qualification for the post.

Friends of Black rallied to his support with counter-charges that the Klan issue was raised against him for political purposes.

His former senatorial colleague, Senator John H. Bankhead of Alabama, blamed the whole uproar on Senator Royal S. Copeland, New York Democrat, now running for the mayoralty nomination in New York city, but without explaining how newspapers in other states were the first to raise the issue.

DEMAND HE RESIGN

Critics of the Klan meanwhile demanded the President ask Black to resign from the court.

Others declared Black should announce publicly he had ever belonged to the secret organization and if he refused to make a clean breast of it, publicly denounce the Klan and all its principles before assuming his duties as a Supreme Court justice.

Meanwhile, congressional turmoil was increasing.

And more details of the occasion on which Mr. Justice Klansman Black was given the gold emblem of membership in the invisible empire of hatred against certain races and creeds of Americans were made public in various newspapers throughout the United States. New York World-Telegram and the American Newspaper Alliance filed sworn affidavits with Senate investigators of activities of the Ku Klux Klan.

The New York newspaper alliance disclosure is reported to have come from Hugo Black's own law partner, who is charging the Senate gathering of statements for the purpose of defeating Black's confirmation as an associate justice of the United States Supreme Senate.

GIVEN CREDIT

The initiation fee is reported as having been waived because Black was a former senate senator from Alabama without the support of the Klan.

The continued newspaper storm centered around Senator Hugo Black, Alabama ex-senator and himself a member of the Ku Klux Klan, as he prepared to return to Washington from his vacation trip to Europe.

Black, who is expected to make an address over the radio tonight in defense of himself, was reported to have refused to discuss the charges that he had been a member of the Klan.

Black, worried, has "nothing to say," according to a report from Paris.

Black, worried, has "nothing to say," according to a report from Paris.

Black, Worried, Has "Nothing to Say"

London, Sept. 15 (INS)—Tired and haggard, Associate Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black of Alabama today unchallengingly refused to confirm or deny allegations he had been a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

Black failed to an INS correspondent who went to Black's hotel suite and knocked at the door.

Black, wearing pajamas and with a tired, worried expression, opened the door a few inches.

"I wanted you to confirm or deny or otherwise clear up the situation caused by allegations that you are a member of the ku klux klan," the correspondent said.

"I have no statement to make. I am not confirming or denying anything."

Autoist Badly Injured in Crash

Braintree, Sept. 15—Joseph Dimitrio of Huntington street was in a critical condition at Quincy Memorial hospital today following injuries when his car collided with a truck on the Boston-Taunton highway, near the East Braintree line.

Police said the truck, allegedly driven by Vincent Cambrino of Magazine street, Cambridge, went out of control, first striking a car and then Dimitrio's. Cambrino was not injured.

Dimitrio is the son of Fortunato R. Dimitrio of South Braintree.

Missing Fishermen Safe

Shelburne N. S., Sept. 15 (Canadian Press)—Six fishermen reported missing three days after a gale were reported safe today. They made their way safely ashore last night at different points along the coast.

BAY STATE MEN DEMAND BLACK KLAN PROBE

something about the man he was appointing."

Former Governor Curley, in a statement to the Boston Evening American, said it was Black's duty, one he owes his President and his country, to resign from his newly appointed office.

CITES "PACKING" PROTEST

Citing the general public protest against a change in the number of members which constitute the Supreme Court, Curley stated:

"Nearly everyone recognizes the wisdom of the action of Congress upon this question but it is impossible to find anyone who can justify the approval of the Senate of Senator Black as a member of this most sacred of American institutions.

"If the same zeal had been exercised in determining his antecedents and qualifications before his confirmation, undoubtedly in response to public opinion and public protest his name would have been rejected."

Declaring there was no place in the Supreme Court for one who fosters racial and religious bigotry, the former governor said he regretted it was not his good fortune to have been elected to the U. S. Senate in order to have voiced vigorous protest to Black's appointment.

HEALEY HUGHES PROBE

Governor Leverett Saltonstall Healey hurried to Washington, Arthur D. Healey, militant New Dealer stated:

"If it is definitely established that Senator Black is a member of the ku klux klan every effort should be made to bring about his immediate resignation. No man by his membership in an un-American organization that subscribes to the principles of intolerance and the spreading of religious antipathy is qualified to sit on the highest tribunal in the land.

"I directed at once to determine FTE investigation should be conducted at once to determine whether or not Black has a life membership in the Klan. Then I believe, if it is proved as true, public opinion will force his retirement."

MCCORMACK LETTER

In an open letter to the Senate judiciary committee striking at Black's silence to the charges, Congressman John W. McCormack declared an immediate investigation

"For Senator Black to permit himself to be sworn would not be justified with the charges pending," McCormack stated. "If innocent he should himself demand an investigation."

Senator Henry F. Walsh, senior senator from Massachusetts, said that Black should issue a statement to the charges saying the Boston senator had further information. He further suggested that President Roosevelt should investigate the charges.

THREATENS BOLT

In a fiery letter to the President Mary E. Greenwood of Hamburg, ardent New Dealer, threatened to bolt the administration ticket unless Roosevelt asks Black's affiliations with the Klan was not forthcoming.

U. S. Senator Ernest W. Gibson (R.) of Vermont, who was in France with the Congressional group, declined comment on the Black case when Black was appointed, today stated he would never have confirmed Black if informed that he knew he was a member of the KKK.

Illinois Representative Edward D. Stone, Republican nominee for U. S. representative in the seventh congressional district, today asserted he would oppose "every effort to pack the federal bench with the agents of bigotry, intolerance and class hatred."

DR. GALLEANI FINED IN BIRTH CLINIC CASE

Arrested when police raided an alleged birth control clinic in Brookline, Dr. Ida Galleani of Kenmore square, Back Bay, was fined $100 today in Brookline district court.

She appealed.

Declaring that he personally believes birth control "often justifiable," Judge Philip S. Parker said he had no choice, under the statute, but to find Dr. Galleani guilty.

She was charged with unlawfully having and offering for sale birth control drugs and instruments.

Judge Parker said:

HAS NO CHOICE

"Birth control is a good thing, under certain circumstances. Many people believe in it. I personally think it is often justifiable.

"But the Massachusetts statute, for which I'm not responsible, permits physicians to give such advice privately but prohibits the giving of such advice in public clinics.

"I have no choice but to find the defendant guilty, as charged."

TELLS OF RAID

He told of raiding Brookline offices of the Mothers' Health Clinic, allegedly operated by the Birth Control League of Massachusetts.

He found two women there, he testified, both of whom said they had been given birth control advice.

The lieutenant also described drugs, medicines and instruments which he said he found on the premises.

Dr. Galleani was present, he testified.

Vienna Crowd Bids Windsors Goodbye

Vienna, Sept. 15 (AP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor bade farewell to Vienna today amid crowds that surged around their automobile shouting "Hoch Edward!"

The throng was so dense in front of the Windsors' hotel their chauffeur was unable to move their car for five minutes. Edward and his Duchess departed for Nicholsburg, near the Czecho-Slovakian frontier, where they will be guests at Prince Dietrich Mendorff's castle for a three-day hunting party.

Mae Clarke Bride Of Airways Pilot

Tijuana, Mex., Sept. 15 (AP)—Mae Clarke, 28, screen actress, and Stephen Bancroft, 31, airways pilot, were married here last night. It was disclosed today by Genaro Castro, attorney, who signed the certificate as one of many toastmasters.

The couple will reside in Rio de Janeiro, where Bancroft is stationed.

Roosevelt Urges New Air Policy

Washington, Sept. 15 (INS)—President Roosevelt today asked Secretary of Commerce Roper to appoint a committee of government experts to frame a new national and permanent aviation policy for submission to the coming session of Congress.

It was learned President Roosevelt has in mind creation of an aviation commission similar to the new maritime commission.

Canada Aids Fake Sweep Ticket Fight

Canadian postal authorities have joined with the United States post office campaign to halt the distribution of counterfeit sweepstake tickets. Chief Post Office Inspector John J. Brecin disclosed today.

Inspector Tennyson Jefferson, of Canada, who has been tracing the source of fake tickets, stated that agents for printers were found operating in Montreal and Quebec.

KLAN TOP ISSUE AS N. Y. VOTE RACE ENDS

New York, Sept. 15 (INS)—The Ku Klux Klan today supplanted the New Deal as the most-talked-of "issue" in New York city's mayoralty race.

Two of the three candidates—Senator Royal S. Copeland and Jeremiah T. Mahoney—were firing verbal salvos and trying to fit the K.K.K. hood on each other while the third entry, Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, who is seeking re-election, sat back and maintained a discreet silence.

It was the candidate's final day for "sounding off."

For tomorrow is primary election day.

BOOMERANG SEEN

The New Dealer Mahoney took to the air today in a broadcast in which he charged that the Klan supported Copeland for the U. S. Senate in 1928. This Copeland emphatically denied.

The Klan talk was stimulated by discovery of the presence in New York city of Hiram W. Evans, former of Richmond, Va., who described himself as the grand dragon of a realm of the Invisible Empire covering Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

TACTICS WATCHED

Mahoney was quoted as saying the Klan was taking an active part in the city's mayoralty contest. He will keep an eye on this un-American activity, and how "it mingles with the foreign elements" who are testing it out for tactics in the national campaign of 1940 and 1940.

Roosevelt, Lewis in 'Pleasant Chat' at White House

Washington, Sept. 15 (AP)—John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization, said after a White House call today he had "a very pleasant conference with the President."

"We talked over a number of matters of mutual interest to the President and myself," the labor leader said.

Asked whether his recent speech interpreted by some as rebuking the President, had been mentioned, Lewis said he had "no further comment."

To a query as to whether Roosevelt had called him "John" during the conference, Lewis replied affably and asked, "What do you think?"

White House attaches said the Presidents talk with Lewis was a pleasant one, and that it had embodied a general discussion of "topics of mutual interest."

Polish Synagogue Stormed by Mob

Warsaw, Sept. 15 (AP)—Rioters stormed a synagogue at Grodno during a Yom Kippur service today in an outburst of anti-Semitic terrorism. The mob first stoned the synagogue and broke all the windows.

BURKE SLATED AS SECRETARY

Attorney Harold T. Burke of Boston is expected to be named secretary of the newly-created State Labor Relations Board at an annual salary of $5000, it was reported at the State House today.

The appointment will be made by the board and submitted to the Governor to council for approval at today's meeting.

Burke was actively identified with the Governor's campaign and was manager of the Democratic forces in Brookline.

Daniel A. Buckley of Cambridge was considered to have the edge for the race for the secretaryship.

Elsie Robinson Asks:

Shall Shame Brand Unborn?

Court Bars Marriage Of Boy, Girl, 15

(Editor's note. The romance of Cecilia Ramirez, 15, purported expectant mother, and Manuel Del Llano, also 15, which San Francisco authorities have refused to allow to culminate in marriage, has attracted wide interest. Elsie Robinson, noted columnist, discusses the unusual case in the following exclusive article written for International News Service.)

By ELSIE ROBINSON

San Francisco, Sept. 15 (INS)—Shall an American court brand an unborn child with shame . . .

Refuse an unwedded mother a husband's name and protection . . .

Deny an unmarried father's right to amend a wrong?

Today San Francisco is rent by three questions. Parents, educators, club women, business men, pastors and priests lay aside other issues to debate this one problem—

Elsie Robinson

Cecilia Ramirez and Manuel Del Llano—yesterday these two were ... and the good wine poured ... and the glad news spread ... and the blessings and forgivings flying fast as birds!

Only a minute it seems ... one long, sweet, frightened minute ... between the terrible yelling and the moment when Manuel ... started out to be wed. Such a proud moment—he, Manuel, his thin boy shoulders bending between the solemn black and she, Cecilia, all ruched and scented and ruffled in cream and gold with her eyes like shining black stars and her young throat full of unshed tears.

Oh, the dear God was good ... so good ... to make it all come out as well for a wicked little girl. Oh, they had ... marching an ... crowding with the fathers and mothers and many nurses and ... nurses and all the neighbors and the feast waiting at home, outspread ... and the orchestra ready for the dancing—

SUDDEN AS EARTHQUAKE

And then—sudden as an earthquake—it had come! The anger ... the strangeness! The grim, hard eyes ... the grim, gray voices ... gathering round ... terrifying, whispering ... opening and shutting the books ...

While he, Manuel ... and she, Cecilia, clung trembling ... the fear beating through them ... like thick mist ...

So easy it had seemed! But it was not to be easy. It was not to be as all. For he, Manuel, had been a bad boy. He had helped steal automobiles. He had done nothing ... nothing ... but evil. He vowed, on the virgin ... that he ... went and begged ... his ... Cecilia ... could not be forgotten. Not ... Why should his dove, his beauty ... be drowned during city water ... was all wicked? What if they were only fifteen? The old ones had married ... earlier than that ... and what if they had been a little wicked ... the impatient to wait ... But ... was not ... instead of ... among ... those ... the good and would ... the straying?

Even for that can they not forgive ...

"NO," SAYS JUDGE

No, not even for this can they forget, says the judge ... says the juvenile court ... say the highly trained specialists.

Let the baby come—

But there must be no wedding!

He, Manuel ... she, Cecilia ...

Woman Gets Wish, Son Kills Her

Petropavlovsk, Kamchatka Peninsula, Siberia, Sept. 15 (AP)—A son's slaying of his aged mother at her own request today sent Young Communists into the isolated northern wastelands to stamp out such ancient tribal practices.

The strange case, reported from the village of Uelskan on the Chukchee peninsula, opposite Alaska, brought to light survival in remote sections of an old custom in which aged parents ask their favorite sons to kill them.

Authorities sent the Young Communists in an attempt to persuade the northern natives to abandon their old ways.

LOURIE ABSENT, WIDOW TRIAL DELAYED

Absence of Defense Attorney George P. Lourie because of the Yom Kippur observance delayed until noon today resumption of the trial of Oscar V. Bartolini in Dedham Superior Court for the Weymouth slaying of Mrs. Grayce Asquith.

During the morning hours, when they normally would have been sitting, the jurors were taken for a visit to historic Fairbanks House in Dedham.

Prior to resumption of the trial, District Attorney Edmund R. Dewing revealed that he had five more witnesses to be heard before the state closed its case.

One of these, he said, was Attorney George Lorgus of Commonwealth avenue, Brighton, who was counsel for Mrs. Asquith.

It was believed three others were another woman witness and State Detectives Joseph Ferrari and John F. Stokes.

Introduction of a surprise woman witness who testified yesterday that she witnessed an attack upon Mrs. Asquith by Bartolini, startled defense counsel and spectators at the trial.

How She Has Lived By Wits Told by Elsa Maxwell

New York, Sept. 15 (INS)—Elsa Maxwell tells all. The buxom, beaming baton-wielder of New York's social circus, who is reputed to know the lowdown on the socialites of both continents, has the famed international set trembling in its hand-sewn slippers.

With reason, too, judging by the first chapter of "I Have Lived by My Wits", Miss Maxwell's memoirs which had made their bow in Harper's Bazaar today.

"I was born in an opera box in Keokuk, Iowa," she announces. "My mother had no business to go out that night, but it seems that her love for the saccharine tunes of 'Mignon' was greater than her faith in the doctor's ability to 'hit it on the nose.'"

"Most beautiful baby in California," piano player in a nickelodeon, Shakespearean actress in a tanktown troupe and accompanist for a vaudeville singer are part of "the background for social prominence" which Miss Maxwell describes.

Reply to Strikers

Officials of the F. A. Whitney Carriage Company said they would give their answer today to the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration.

SHOE MEN OPEN TARIFF FIGHT

Haverhill, Sept. 15—While manufacturers of this city's shoe industry conferred in Boston at the New England Shoe and Leather Association headquarters today, political and civic officials here moved to elicit 100 per cent support of their plea to maintain a high tariff on shoes.

Lower rates will jeopardize jobs of thousands of New England shoe workers, representatives of the leather industry here will plead at hearing at the State Department in Washington, D. C., October 25.

Preliminary steps were being taken today preparing battle lines for a fight to maintain protective tariffs at the Boston parley of manufacturers.

$2500 Cruiser Burns at Beach

On the shore of Malibu Beach Deepheater, today lay the embers of what once was a $2500 32-foot cabin cruiser, owned by Thomas Flaherty of Wyman street, Braintree.

Hundreds of motorists stopped to observe the spectacular blaze as the boat went up in flames before firemen could bring it to shore from its moorings, 450 feet out. A traffic tie-up resulted along Old Colony boulevard.

Gang's Own Doorstep 'Sit' Wins Payoff

Cincinnati, Sept. 15 (AP)—A "sit-down strike" against one of their playfellows brought dividends to a group of boys here today.

City Welfare Supervisor Albert W. Pecsok said one of a group of boys over which he presides had been borrowing dimes from others in the crowd and not repaying them.

Last night the entire gang called on the boy and sat on his doorstep. The youngster's mother paid off.

Roller Coaster Fall Kills Rider

New York, Sept. 15 (INS)—Owners of the Mile Sky Chaser, Coney Island roller coaster, today were unable to explain how George Berry, 37, a Keansburg, N. J., grocer, fell from a ca. to his death at the resort last night.

Berry, sitting beside his wife, lurched from his seat in some unexplained manner at the top of the "big dip" and crashed onto a catwalk below.

U. S. BAN HALTS ARMS CARGOES TO ORIENT

Washington, Sept. 15 (AP)—Maritime Commission officials worked swiftly today to carry out a partial embargo ordered by President Roosevelt on arms shipments to China and Japan.

The full commission was summoned to a special session to consider whether it will intercept the American freighter Wichita, en route from Baltimore to China with a cargo of 19 airplanes, as the first application of the new rule.

The vessel, which sailed from Baltimore on August 27, was expected to reach San Pedro, Calif., during the day for refueling.

Mr. Roosevelt ordered the arms ban late yesterday by forbidding all ships owned by the government but operated privately to transport munitions to the Far Eastern war zone.

VESSELS CAUTIONED

All other American merchant vessels were cautioned that if they attempt to take such cargoes to the Orient they do so at their own risk.

The edict marked the most drastic step taken by the government in the undeclared Sino-Japanese war.

It was proclaimed after the President had conferred with Secretary Hull and Chairman Kennedy of the Maritime Commission. In the meantime, he had conveyed the gravity of Far Eastern and European situations to his cabinet, hurriedly summoned to a special meeting a few hours after his return from an extended visit to his family home at Hyde Park, N. Y.

The President's statement emphasized that the neutrality act was not being invoked but that it was the government policy in this instance, using Sept. 20 as a 24-hour basis.

WORDS "TITTERY"

The peremptory way in which the President made arbitrary application of a state of war status between nations, automatically would bar American merchant vessels and financial aid to belligerents. It would permit the chief executive to forbid American ships to transport to the war zones any other commodities which he might designate.

Mr. Roosevelt repeated at his press conference yesterday his reason to do everything possible to keep the United States out of any war.

Autopsy Ordered in Probe of Wanamaker Heiress Death

OVERREDUCING IS BLAMED

New York, Sept. 15 (INS)—Dissatisfied with a physician's explanation that overstrenuous dieting caused the sudden death yesterday of Mary Brown Warburton, granddaughter of the late John L. Wanamaker, merchant prince, police ordered an autopsy performed today.

Police also were unable to understand why they were not called until three hours after the popular society bachelor girl died in her fashionable apartment.

Dr. John H. Morrissey said a heart attack brought on by strenuous reducing efforts caused her death.

Miss Warburton, well-known in New York, Philadelphia and Palm Beach society circles, was to have left today for White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., where she frequently went to drop poundage.

A maid found the girl lying unconscious on the floor of her bathroom.

Miss Warburton first complained of illness, "a pain in her side," Monday night when she entertained her parents and brother at a dinner in her apartment. Mr. and Mrs. Warburton and their son had just returned from Europe.

A week ago, it was reported, Miss Warburton collapsed on the street near her apartment. She said indignantly that she had fainted, friends declared.

Possessed of a gay, rollicking disposition, Miss Warburton lived in constant fear of gaining weight. She ate sparingly, weighed about 120 pounds and was not particularly stout because of her height.

Kay Francis Cites Warner in Suit

Los Angeles, Sept. 15 (INS)—Jack L. Warner, motion picture magnate, has been ordered to appear before Superior Judge Emmett Wilson Friday to show cause why he should not give a deposition in the suit against Warner Brothers Picture Corporation by Kay Francis.

The noted screen star is seeking cancellation of a contract between Warners on the ground that she was promised the feminine lead in the film version of "Tovarich," but was not assigned to it.

NEW SHANGHAI CLASH PERILS AMERICANS

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1937, International News Service. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Shanghai, Sept. 15 (INS)—Peril to the American sector of the International Settlement and to British and other foreign industrial interests here in Shanghai increased gravely today as a major battle developed between Japanese troops and crack Southern Chinese detachments for possession of Pootung.

Military operations which might obliterate Pootung, heart of British and foreign industrial interests here, were feared as a strong Japanese force attacked the region.

Fifty thousand Chinese troops from Kwangsi provinces—the best fighting men in all South China, have occupied Pootung to prevent further landing of Japanese forces there.

The purpose of the Japanese assault is to drive out these Chinese shock troops, thus clearing a way for landing of Nipponese reinforcements and vast supplies.

The Japanese high command surprised when the 50,000 Chinese occupied Pootung in an unexpected move following the Chinese retreat to a heavily fortified Oriental Hindenburg line three miles west of Shanghai is determined to leave nothing undone to oust them and hinkle the Kwangsi regiments.

Meanwhile the Japanese advance in other areas of Shanghai was not continuous but at full speed immediately after the Chinese retreat was temporarily halted.

Dare to die Chinese snipers left behind to delay the Japanese while the main Chinese forces fell back—harassed the Japanese to such an extent that the invading forces were compelled to halt and consolidate the territory they already had gained.

At the same time the delicate position of the American sector of the foreign settlement remained a matter of grave concern to United States military authorities.

'SINK PIRATE SUBS' ORDER NOW IN EFFECT

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1937)

London, Sept. 15—Commanders-in-chief of the French and British fleets in the Mediterranean have ordered all British and French warships in that sea to conform to terms of the "Nyon arrangement" to halt piracy, International News Service learned today.

Units of the two fleets are thus under instructions to sink any "phantom submarines" caught attacking neutral merchant ships of any nationality except Spanish on the high seas.

Officials estimated approximately 15 British and French warships are now in the Mediterranean.

Under the agreement, if an American or other foreign ship excluding spanish vessels, should be attacked by a "pirate" submarine, British and French warships in the vicinity would immediately go to the attacked ship's assistance.

DETAILS NEEDED

The actual Anglo-French destroyer patrol scheme is not likely to come into full force for several days, a high admiralty authority informed International News Service.

He explained a considerable amount of detailed preparation is involved, necessitating lengthy consultations between the navies, especially the French and Britain, before this plan can go into full operation.

Sir Alfred Pound, British commander-in-chief of the Mediterranean fleet, is scheduled to confer with the French commander at that time.

The admiralty source said the British and French destroyers are scheduled to take up actual patrol work Thursday. Two-thirds of this number will be at sea at all times.

BRITISH OVERRULED

Once the patrol work starts, the chiefs of the British and two French cruisers, working effectively, will be empowered to issue orders to naval force actually engaged in combatting the submarine menace. Two-thirds of this force will be warships carrying 6-inch guns, 25 knot gaits and torpedo tubes.

Unconfirmed reports reached London from Geneva that France and the Soviets have extended the British-French patrol to the Black sea for parts in the Mediterranean patrol if she is to cooperate with it.

Nevertheless, the British are still striving for Italian participation in the Nyon arrangement, despite the fact that she, like Germany, held aloof from the Nyon conference.

British Planes Join Anti-Piracy Patrol

London, Sept. 15 (AP)—Royal Air Force flying boats today were ordered into the nine-nation battle for Mediterranean pirate submarines.

The government's decision to give "eyes" to Great Britain's warships on pirate patrol duty was reached as suddenly the Air Ministry was unable to determine the exact number of aircraft that will be put into service.

France already has backed her fleet with plane detachments.

Hoffman Trapped In N. Y. Hideout

Boston police were advised early today that New York detectives had located the house where Charles Hoffman, escaped New Jersey prison inmate sought for the slaying of a private detective during a Cambridge payroll holdup four years ago, is believed to be hiding. Police expected to have the fugitive in custody before noon today. His arrest is only a matter of hours, it was said.

Hoffman was once captured in Massachusetts, and later released from Charles street jail on writs of habeas corpus.

Hoffman's release was a remarkable one, for in October, 1931, the story of controversy that was posted about Charles street jail.

Another New Truck in the New International line—Cab-Over-Engine Model D-300.

The NEW Cab-Over-Engine INTERNATIONALS

● As in the other models in the New International line, this new Cab-Over-Engine International is new in construction as well as in design. It offers a new standard in performance as well as in appearance.

This new Cab-Over-Engine International is by no means just a converted conventional truck. It's a new truck from the ground up. It's all-truck like every other International. It's a Cab-Over-Engine Truck in the fullest meaning of the term. The seat is directly over the engine, not alongside the rear of it. Instead of the standard hood, there is maximum extra-loading space, with perfected load distribution on front and rear axles and all wheels. There is greater operating economy. The engine is completely accessible. The new cab provides greater comfort for the driver, and increased visibility. New steering construction and the shorter wheelbase provide greatest handling ease, and new hydraulic brakes provide maximum braking efficiency.

Here is the ideal low-priced truck in the 1½ ton field for today's crowded traffic. See this new Cab-Over-Engine International, and see the other new Internationals, ranging from Half-Ton units to powerful Six-Wheelers. Come in and see this or any of the other new models that may fit your job. If you can't come in now we will be glad to send you a catalog.

A DEMONSTRATION SPECIAL!

Treat yourself to a thorough study of the New International Cab-Over-Engine Model D-300. Put it through its paces. Ride and drive it on congested highways.

This true Seat-Over Engine unit is Ahead of the Entire Field in easy handling of your loads in traffic. We want to SHOW you why. No obligation. Just phone at your convenience.

The Brighter Side: By Damon Runyon

(Copyright, 1937, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International Copyright and all Other Rights Reserved.)

We had a long talk with a chap who is accounted right smart with race horses. We wanted to find out if it is possible for a man to attain 100 per cent accuracy in picking the winners of horse races. We felt that this information might come in handy to us one of these days. A man never knows when he may be able to use a winner.

Damon Runyon

A lot of fellows make it their life work to pick winners of horse races, but few of them reach better than 50 per cent accuracy over any considerable period of time, though they may run up a higher average over a short stretch.

We have always felt that this was mighty good enough, and we have long wondered if there is not some element that might enter into the picture of sports, and raise the average of accuracy to something of a standard of stability. We find that there is. We find that the average could be lifted to at least 90 per cent of accuracy, would be if we but had time and were able to allow anything for acts of Providence and things like that.

All a man needs to do is learn the horse language, so he can have a little chat with a horse before a race. Few! Just a few words. The reader's immediate reaction is that will probably be that is an impossible qualification, a human being can never learn to talk with a horse.

Mr. Hirsch Jacobs, a horse trainer by trade, is the chap who told us that a talk with a horse is the one thing that will take the race of winners out of the realm of uncertainty and give it almost complete accuracy.

As we gathered from Mr. Jacobs' remarks, you can get a horse in what you think is the best of physical conditions and place it in a race in which all conditions and competition considered, figures a sure thing, but there will still remain a question that leaves the issue a matter of doubt.

Mr. Jacobs would like to say to horses:

"Well, how are we feeling today? Did we rest well last night? How is the old appetite? What do you think of the race this afternoon? Do you feel that you can beat that mare of Mr. Jock Whitney's?"

Suppose the horse replied:

"Boss, I feel terrible. I didn't get a wink of sleep. Those stable boys next door were drinking beer out of a can and singing 'Sweet Adeline' all night. I couldn't eat a mouthful of that junk they dished out for me this morning. I am all out of sorts. I just heard from an old gelding over in Mr. Bradley's barn that my mamma down in Kentucky isn't so well. I wish you wouldn't run me against that Whitney thing, boss. She is always wise cracking at me and makes me so nervous I can't get up a gallop, and now, boss—"

Well, on a statement of this nature Mr. Jacobs would, of course, scratch the horse from the race. But on the other hand, the horse might say:

"I feel wonderful, pal. If I felt any better, I couldn't stand it; I sleep like a top. I could eat a haystack smothered with oats. Say, if that burglar that's going to ride me this afternoon doesn't get me in more pockets than there are in an overcoat like he did the last time out, I'll win by as far as you can shoot a cannon. Boss, I don't think that guy can spell horse. Never mind about that Whitney thing. If I wasn't a gentleman, I'd say she is just a bum. I'll beat her from here to Niagara Falls, Ill—"

In that event, Mr. Jacobs would be in a highly optimistic mood as to the horse in the race.

We asked Mr. Jacobs why he did not try asking a horse how it felt some day, and he said:

"I did. I went in the stall of Caballero II the other morning and just to make conversation, I said 'Well, Old Boy, how do you feel?' He just took a kick at me."

"What did you do?" we asked.

"Why," said Mr. Jacobs, with some heat, "I took a kick right back at him. We both missed."

RIOPELLE AGAIN QUESTIONED IN CHASE DEATH

Methuen, Sept. 15—As state police continued to probe the shotgun killing of Leo Lemay, Lawrence bartender, after a five-mile auto chase from Salem, N. H., funeral services were arranged for tomorrow morning.

The funeral will be from his home in Cross street, with a solemn high mass of requiem in St. Anne's Church at 9 a. m. Burial will be in Sacred Heart Cemetery.

Requestioning of George Riopelle, the Salem lunch counterman, by State Detective Richard J. Griffin failed today. Griffin said, to add any angle on Riopelle's story that he was threatened with a gun by a man in the lunch cart, thought the man and his two companions were bandits, chased them to Methuen and fired at the car.

Lemay was killed by the shotgun blast as Methuen police stopped the two speeding cars, and today Riopelle is out on $1000 bail on a manslaughter charge.

The two companions of Lemay in the other car were charged with being accessories from fleeing and were released in $2500 each.

They are George Tait, 50, of Neunich street, Lawrence, and Charles M. Waterman, 39, of Summer street, Andover.

Riopelle, Tait and Waterman charging them with assault with intent to murder.

These warrants will be served in Lawrence District Court on Friday, when the two men appear on the charges of carrying firearms in Methuen without licenses in New Hampshire.

Judge Oakes, 80, Dies

Kittery, Me., Sept. 15—Judge Henry Waller Oakes, retired member of the Maine Supreme Court bench and former mayor of this city, was dead at his home here today after a long illness. He was 80 years old.

50 Big Bands Will Join Constitution Day Parade

Fete Starts Friday at 3 O'Clock

The stage was all set today for one of the greatest pageants in the history of the commonwealth as plans were completed by the Massachusetts Sesquicentennial Commission for the observance of the 150th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States, to be held in Boston, Friday.

The big event on the day's program, the huge military and civic parade which will swing through downtown Boston streets, beginning at 3 p. m., will take four hours to pass.

Adjutant General Charles H. Cole, chief marshal of the parade, announced at the State House today, that the parade roster was completed and more than 50,000 marchers, 50 bands and 40 floats would be in the line of march.

Promptly at 3 p. m. the chief marshal will give the "forward march" command from a police mounted police contingent of the Boston police will start the first unit of the parade on the along Beacon street, near Berkeley.

OFFICIAL BAND

The Shriners' Band of Boston, numbering over 300 pieces, will be the official band for the chief marshal and his staff.

The parade will be along Beacon street, past the State House, where the governor's reviewing stand will be located, down Park street to Tremont street, turning into Boylston street, to Park Square, the parade will then follow along the Arlington-Boylston Mall to Beacon street, where units will be dismissed.

In accordance with the wishes of the Constitution Day commission, Boston department stores will close on Friday.

The commission and Governor Hurley have also requested business concerns employing workers to dismiss employes who are to participate in the parade at noon. Schools throughout the Commonwealth will be closed at noon.

CLOSE AT NOON

In Boston all federal state and city buildings will close at the noon hour in order to give employees an opportunity to view the parade.

Wreaths are to be placed on the graves of Ruths king and Samuel Gorham by Governor Hurley, the only man who helped sign the Constitution in Philadelphia 150 years ago.

King is buried in Old Cambridge Cemetery, Cambridge, and Gorham's burial place is Hopper Street Cemetery, Charlestown.

The Women's Republican Club of Boston will hold open house at Park Bowers street, headquarters during the parade. Tea will be served by members of the women voters' group in the club who will be dressed in colonial costume.

Three police units will be among the large groups in the parade, according to the roster.

Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty, who will act at the head of a detail of 200 police officers, the police post band and the department's motorcycle squad. The Boston police unit will be in the state's sixth division which is composed of cities and towns of the Commonwealth.

Fire Commissioner Edward McLaughlin will also be at the head of a large detail of firemen and ambulance along with the Boston Fire Department Band.

FIRST PARADE

For the first time in the history of the Metropolitan police, the organization will participate in a Boston parade.

Metropolitan District Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman announced that 700 officers in their navies-blue uniforms, under command of Deputy Superintendent Harry Hayes, will head the second division.

Another unique parade feature will be the Officers' Reserve Corps of 500 men, marching as one unit. The officers will be accompanied by the 240th Infantry Band of Maine, a regular army unit.

From the governor's reviewing stand, in which former governors, Bay State congressmen, members of the legislature, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, wife of the late President, James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President, and governors of the other New England states will be seated, a nationwide broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting System will be featured.

JEWISH RITES SPEAKERS LAUD CONSTITUTION

The 150th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States was the topic of many sermons delivered in local Jewish Temples during Day of Atonement services today.

Extolling the Constitution as the guardian of personal and religious liberty, Rabbi Beryl D. Cohen, of Temple Israel, told his followers that the people of this nation would lay down their lives before surrendering this right.

"Few there are among us who will not proclaim loud and long that we are entitled to religious freedom," Rabbi Cohen said.

"Many would lay down their lives before surrendering this right. We insist on our rights; we insist on our privileges.

"But if it is important that we insist on our rights, it is doubly important that we recognize our responsibilities. All rights entail responsibilities. Religious rights impose religious responsibilities. If we shirk our responsibilities, we forfeit our rights."

A large throng attending services in Whitney Hall, Brookline heard Alexander Brin, editor and publisher, speak on the Constitution.

"America presents today the finest temple of human freedom," Editor Brin said. "The cornerstone for this temple was laid 150 years ago this week. The traditions of American freedom lives today and has grown in import in the light of world events.

"The first amendments of our Bill of Rights is the rock on which our fathers laid down the principle out of which have grown our free press, our free pulpits, our various forms of worship, and the expression of our religious opinions."

Boston Jewry at sundown today will end the two-day observance of Yom Kippur, most sacred of all Jewish religious holidays.

Ending the 10-day period of penance which began with the Jewish New Year, the holiday was marked by thronged temples and synagogues in the Greater Boston area.

Rabbi stressed the part of their people in present day life in sermons yesterday and similar themes were noted for today's texts.

Perhaps most impressive in the religious services was the intoning of "Kol Nidre," announcement of the Hebrew people. It was sung in all temples.

In Temple Ohabei Shalom, Beacon and Kent streets, Brookline, Rabbi Samuel J. Abrams speaks on "The Jew and the Modern World."

C. H. Rogers Found Dead In Methuen

Gas Fills Kitchen of Lawyer's Home

Methuen, Sept. 15—Christopher H. Rogers, 63, prominent Methuen and Lawrence lawyer, was found dead today in the gas-filled kitchen of his home in Stevens street.

Gas was pouring from jets in the range when members of the fire department broke into the room. Dr. John Parr said the lawyer had been dead seven or eight hours.

The body was found at 10 a. m. after a boy had smelled gas in the street outside the house and had failed in an attempt to enter.

His secretary, whose name was not immediately learned, showed authorities a letter left on the desk by the lawyer last night. The letter, which she found today, read:

"My dear Olive:

"I am not feeling very well tonight. Probably will be all right in the morning. If I don't come in at the usual time, call up the Edsons or Ritchies next door.

"Francis and Catherine are away at Duxbury. I expect them home tomorrow."

Phone Edsons found Francis and Catherine were the two children of the lawyer, whom they said was a widower.

They Seek Fame and Fortune Through Talent Quest

William H. Rockard is only 16 and a graduate of Arlington High School and now a model student. Jane Gregory is 17 and lives in Wollaston. She also attends classes at the Copley Academy and has dramatic ambitions.

Edna Rockard is 19 and a graduate of Boylston High School and has had some professional experience. Her sister Ellen is a student. Both girls have been entered in the contest by their mother, Mrs. Rockard, who lives in Worcester. Has had professional experience.

Talent Director Reveals How Youth Succeeded

By AL ALTMAN

All Alone, Eastern talent director of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is still going to Boston to help select the final selection in the New England Talent Quest, telling the story of Igor Gorin, brilliant young baritone. It is designed to give inspiration to other young people with talent and ambition to succeed.

IGOR GORIN

AIR OF DEFEAT

It's over 2 now a case of incipient melancholy or despair, or what you will, of young Igor Gorin, who came 10 to see me one day and merely sat at a piano to play and sing, just as he had for several months previously, for countless executives anybody and everybody who would listen to him. Finally, he came to see me, and a general air of defeat. After singing 24 bars I'll suggest all winter—singers with careers stopped him. He was an operatic soloist, a concert singer, a popular singer. In addition he was a composer and arranger. He was known in the studios. He had just made a picture in which he sang. He had been heard on the radio. He had appeared at the Hollywood Bowl. He had been a soloist with Paul Whiteman, Meredith Willson, Andre Kostelanetz and the Treasure Island Symphony. He had been starred in his own radio broadcasts. He had had his radio broadcasts. He had had his own radio broadcasts. He had had his own radio broadcasts. He had had his own

Of course it isn't too late yet, but when reading, writing and the two were rammed in Hub school rooms a few days ago some of the kids in the public high or radio typewriting room should have been called back as talking schoolboys . . . It'd be easy old heart good to watch the schoolboys tear be ing waged up on the "Fifth Floor of the Kids' Room at Berkeley & west with the grown-up children refusing to speak to this one or that one and the tongues sticking out behind backs and the mouths for scoffing and snubbing . . . Bright Film Future for Hepburn

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor International News Service

Los Angeles, Sept. 15—What are Katharine Hepburn's chances of continuing as a movie favorite?

Personally, a few months ago we wouldn't have given a nickel for her future on the screen. Then came "Stage Door" and Gregory La Cava through some magic humanized her and she became the Hepburn of "Morning Glory."

Even as Ginger Rogers matured her and she had definite competition from Andrea Leeds and Jo-Carroll Dennison, Hepburn so stole attention as her flowers in "Stage Door" that she was the one who was given the part previously slated for Ginger in "Swing Time."

Hepburn has nothing to fear from Marie Dressler's return to Hollywood after a long absence. Miss Dressler is a character actress and Hepburn is a glamorous star. So no one need see in the same picture the Hepburn and Dressler type to offer competition.

Margaret Sullavan, who has been off the stage for some time, is said to be returning to it in the fall . . . Her husband, Henry Fonda, is also an actor, as was his father, the late Jay Fonda . . . Probably he will be back in this city, working on the same stage as his wife . . .

Bette Davis may not get the role of Scarlett in "Gone With the Wind," but she's got the twin sister to it and it isn't a steal. "Jezebel," her next picture, was produced on the stage five years ago with Miriam Hopkins—before "Gone With the Wind" was even dreamed of—and its heroine is very like the much published Scarlett, a South ern gal who "knew how to handle men" and such a scheming minx that her aunt calls her Jezebel . . . Her novel pictured the period of the Civil War and it's a costume drama. Better hurry, Dahl Selznick . . .

STERLING FILM TEAM

Bette Davis and Henry Fonda—they're just about tops in screenland acting—find love in "That Certain Woman" which opens at the Metropolitan tomorrow.

Cooper-Raft Hit on Twin Screens

Gary Cooper and George Raft co-starred in "Souls At Sea," Paramount's romantic drama of the seas featuring Frances Dee, Henry Wilcoxon and Olympe Bradna, coupled with "Mr. Dodd Takes The Air," Warner Brothers' musical comedy hit adapted from the story by Clarence Buddington Kelland, starring Kenny Baker, singing star of the radio, are the principal features on the Paramount and Fenway double-feature program beginning today.

"Souls At Sea" presents Gary Cooper as the adventurous seaman who takes command of a burning ship when all its officers are killed. With only one lifeboat available, Cooper holds trial on the deck of the sinking vessel to determine who shall leave the ship and later, when the overcrowded lifeboat is sinking, he deliberately lurks several people into the sea to save the lives of the others.

Picked up by a passing ship, the survivors are taken to Philadelphia, and there Cooper finds himself on trial for his life, accused of deliberately sacrificing human lives.

OPENING

Sheila Barrett, one of America's top comics, appears for a one-week engagement at Loew's State, starting tonight. Miss Barrett has been booked in vaudeville, in the legit, in night clubs, in radio and in movies, engagements of both high and low degree. Two shows will be given today at 2:30 and 8:30 p. m.

Sheila Barrett

Sheila Barrett has always been a favorite with Bostonians, and her return will be hailed by a big audience at the Metropolitan tonight.

Held Over

James Cagney in "Something to Sing About" is being held over at the Hub Theater for a second week.

The story concerns a Broadway song king who departs for Hollywood to make his debut in Hollywood films.

The co-feature "The Shadow Strikes," a Grand National thriller based on the famous stories of "The Shadow," with Rod La Rocque and Lora Ardera, concerns the invisible Shadow, a mysterious man who defies in solving baffling crimes.

Martha Young Makes Debut At Country Club Luncheon

By BETTY ALDEN

AUTUMNAL YELLOWS, browns and gold were the dominating colors at the debut luncheon of Martha Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Archibald Young of Brookline, this afternoon . . . The small luncheon tables at The Country Club were decorated with brown and green flowers, and Miss Young wore a dress of brown embroidered in gold, with a small brown hat . . . The debutante's mother, who assisted in receiving the guests, wore a dress of dubonnet crepe with a black hat . . .

Mrs. Charles Woodard

Though there were a great many of Miss Young's sister debutantes at the luncheon, the group was not made up entirely of girls who are coming out this season . . . Jane Young, sister of today's debutante, who made her debut four years ago and graduated from Smith this June, presided at a post-deb table. Mrs. Young was hostess to a number of debutantes' mothers.

Ellen Moseley, Faith Conant, and Polly Merrill were among the debutantes at this affair, and others were Deborah Seragne, Amy Ranney, Isabel Russell, Barbara Salt, Betty Scudder, Deborah Bankart, Helen Blanchard, Nancy Bosson, Charlotte Bradlee, Harriet Brooks, Patricia Calkins, Helen Claflin, Jean Halladay, Olive MacIlwain, Nancy Osgood, Nancy Peabody, Amelia Payne, Eleanor Peirl, Jane Pickman, Margaret Verhoeff and many others . . .

Miss Young attended the Potomac School in Washington, D. C., graduated from the Lee School in Boston and is now in her second year of Connecticut College . . .

Anne Clark Attends Fashion Show

YOU MIGHT NOT BELIEVE it but John Roosevelt and Anne Clark get just as big a kick out of seeing their pictures in the paper as any other young couple . . . Yesterday after luncheon at the Ritz they stopped at the newsstand and purchased a paper, turned quickly to look at their picture, and they went out chatting about it as gayly as you or I would . . .

With a man's usual lack of interest in feminine fashions, John did not attend the luncheon at the Ritz with his fiancee and Mrs. Clark, but went up to the barber shop for a hair cut instead . . . joining them in the lobby afterward . . .

It was rather hard for some of the romantically inclined ladies at the luncheon to keep their attention on the fashions . . . as magnificent as they were . . . for Anne herself was something to attract one's attention . . . even if she hadn't just become engaged to the President's son . . . Her tan outfit, a pinkish London tan, was both very modish and very becoming . . . the dress of silk was draped under her chin with a diamond clip and her wide brimmed hat was turned up on one side at a dashing angle, and covered with a tan veil . . . When she left the dining room to meet John, she put on a fitted and belted tweed coat the exact color of her dress . . . even her purse and shoes were the same shade . . . Besides her engagement ring she wore a diamond little finger ring and diamond bracelet on her right hand and arm . . .

Anne lunched with her mother, Mrs. F. Haven Clark, who wore a black outfit with a small black beret pulled down over one eye at a becoming angle, and a silver fox scarf . . . Her youngest daughter, Joan, was also present . . . especially to see daughter Sally modelling some of the exotic clothes shown in the fashion preview . . .

French and Hollywood coutouriers spend years of research and often lay awake nights thinking up new ideas in fashions to combine with the old . . . and to inject the very last word in chic into milady's costume . . .

But you have heard what sometimes happens to the best laid plans of mice and men . . .

These fashion experts who take great pride in the elusive, glamorous effects which their gowns create, would have been quite chagrined if they had attended several of the lavish debut parties held on Long Island last week . . . Ruby Newman, who is just back from playing at a couple of them, says the evenings turned out to be so cool under the elaborate satin lined and chiffon draped marquees, where the affairs were held, that many of the girls pulled colored sport sweaters over their evening dresses . . . and danced about in what might have been termed semi-sport, semi-formal comfort . . .

Farewell Parties on North Shore

AS A FINAL CONCESSION to summer and the informality of the warm weather parties, there's quite a craze for fancy dress affairs on the North Shore . . . Already invitations, bidding their recipients to "come in costume," have been issued for two such parties on Sept. 25 . . . one is the Francis Cummings' barn dance in Pride's Crossing . . . and the other a sort of farewell party given by Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Felton at their Hamilton estate . . . before they return to New York for the winter . . .

The newlywed Charles Woodards (Gwen Livermore) returned this week from their honeymoon trip to Europe and will soon be at home in Cambridge . . . where the bridegroom is to attend Harvard Law School . . .

Wonder what plans for the coming season at the Junior League were being hashed over on the corner of Washington and Summer streets yesterday afternoon . . . When the paths of the League's president, Rachel Warner, and her predecessor, Mrs. George Bemis of Milton crossed . . . and they paused in their shopping expeditions to have a serious conversation on the busy corner . . .

The chilly weather is inducing many socialites to come into town on shopping tours these days . . . Nancy Cassels and her mother did the shops yesterday . . . probably in preparation for Barbara Brewer's wedding Friday, at which Nancy is to be a bridesmaid . . . Wearing a mink cape over her tailored gray suit, Mrs. Guy Warren Walker, Jr., of Hamilton, scooted up West street not far behind them . . .

RECENT BRIDE LIKES BERMUDA CLIMATE

Mrs. Francis P. Clark of New York and Newport, the former Natalie Folsom of Hamilton, greets friends aboard an ocean liner anchored off Bermuda, as she cruises about in a motor launch. Mr. and Mrs. Clark have been honeymooning in Bermuda all summer.

Fashion Show Attracts Many Club Set Leaders

It was on to the Ritz yesterday and why not? Is there any more diverting way of spending an early fall day than lunching and watching the most fetching fashions in town parade by?

Up from her Naland summer home came Mrs. Joseph Story Fay to lunch with her daughter, Mrs. H. P. Kidder of Prides and her sister, Virginia. Mrs. Fay's simple morning dress of black wool was set off by a white fur scarf. A was attractively outlined in gray a little bow under and a string of white pearls completed the ensemble.

GOWN OF BLACK WOOL

Mrs. Kidder, who is prominent in child welfare in Brookline, wore a black wool dress with bell sleeves and Virginia wore cerise wool. Mrs. Winthrop Sears, mother of Boston's debutante daughter, completed the group for her luncheon party.

Mrs. H. Bowditch, another of Brookline's prominent matrons, was among some of the day's most attentive event-goers, entertaining several friends at her table. The Bowditch home was attractive in modern blue velvet with matching curtains matching furniture.

Among her guests were Mrs. Paul Revere Frothingham, who was most at the Ministers-Missionary wedding Saturday morning. Mrs. Frothingham wore a black wool dress and topped by a satin scarf and black velvet bonnet in a matching wine coloring.

Also watching the fast word in fashions were Mrs. Gardner Mallard, Belmont; her black satin frock looked in white lace and Mary Lee Hooper in a wool crepe in shades of wine red.

WATCH STYLE REVUE

Exceptionally interested in the fast of last-minute fashions were Mrs. John Shurtleff and her daughter, Mrs. Charles Sullivan, who watched the show from their table overlooking the runway.

Also glimpsed Mrs. John T. Moran in black wool and Mrs. H. Dudley Swim with navy and white ensemble and her lightweight cape of navy.

MODEL

ATTRACTIVE MODEL at many of the season's fall fashion revues will be Eleanor Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Robert Sullivan of Hull and Park drive. Eleanor's active in alumnae affairs of Emmanuel College and Boston Academy of Notre Dame.

Joint Debut At Dance

Honeymooning In the South

Retreat to the South to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hoag Tracy, who exchanged wedding vows at a church ceremony Thursday morning in St. Mary of the Assumption Church in Brookline.

Mrs. Tracy is the former Marie Sharon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Shurtleff of Brookline. For her bridal ensemble she chose ivory satin richly appliqued with antique duchess lace. The same material fashioned her tiny coronet cap which topped her tulle veil.

Helen Reeves of Brookline, honor maid, was gowned in wine velvet with matching hat. Included in the quartet of bridesmaids, effectively arrayed in sapphire blue velvet and carrying arm bouquets of red roses and baby breath, were Mary Elizabeth Spurrell, Mrs. Parmenid Hewett, Mrs. Gerald Allen Hill and Nancy Tracy of Fairfield, Ct., a sister of the bridegroom.

Joseph Tracy served as best man. Ushering at the ceremony and at the reception which followed in the Ballroom Room at the Hotel Somerset were Thomas and James Tracy of New York, brothers of the bridegroom, John Shurtle of Brookline and Gerald Hill.

Forcing Decision

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

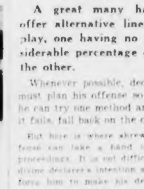
A great many hands offer alternative lines of play, one having no considerable percentage over the other.

Whenever possible, declarer must plan his offense so that he can try one method and, if it fails, fall back on the other.

But here is where skilled defense can take a hand in the proceedings. It is not difficult to divine declarer's intention and to force him to make his decision before he has explored the first possibility.

This may be somewhat obscure, but I trust my meaning will become clearer in the description of the following hand:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Another second suit resulted in the customary seeking. The second contract, of course, should have led two notrumps into three instead of urging a game try.

Against the adroit four spade contract, West let open a remarkable display of diamonds. East's Queen was allowed to hold, and then a diamond continuation was taken by the Ace. Declarer now saw that success depended on a split of the trump honors, so he led a 3 club suit which would afford a discard of the heart loser. West ducked the club, however, some dominoes spade Ace could not remain as an entry, and declarer had to concede a club and second heart.

East, after winning with the first club, cashed the heart Ace. He then naturally assumed the passing of a trick was deep suspicion. The Ace of spades was led, and some stripped aces was to return to relay, in fact quite to the contrary.

Declarer had felt very strongly and had been discovered to hold the Queen of spades. He had no trumps and nothing in clubs. What was more likely than that he held the Ace and Queen of hearts?

If East were to return a diamond, declarer would ruff low, draw trumps, then the Ace of clubs, and finally lead the heart and pretend to his advantage of pass, namely the Queen.

East switched to a very simple manoeuvre instead of returning a diamond. He led a spade. Now declarer's two apparent chances were abruptly halted. He could not finesse the heart Queen and there was no way to play the Ace of clubs first. For with such a lead West would break and provide the trump diamond.

It was no discredit to the declarer that he guessed wrong in putting up the heart Ace, and the opponents are the ones to be praised, which failed to materialize.

Today's Young Man Often As Narrow Minded as His Grandfather

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

We live in a modern age, but the up-to-date man still has a great deal of the Victorian intolerance in his makeup.

When I say that, I am sure that most readers, women especially, will agree with me.

Daily I receive letters that are positive proof that man, 1937 model, is just about as ready to condemn women's rights as his grandfather was. Such a fellow is the one discussed in the following letter:

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Word been going [illegible] for more than a year, before he told me he was a widower and that his wife and child were dead. He was the first girl friend I ever had, and I fell terribly in love with him.

Going to a distant city, he used to write to me on his every day. We became engaged and I began to get things together for my hope chest.

Fearing that our engagement was so binding as mine was, I used him only more. On one occasion he showed me a picture of his deceased wife and the child seemed to fall in love with me from the first.

I didn't like him. On the contrary, I disliked him very much, but he always found me willing to [illegible] at the front gate. I would never ask him to the house, as he always had to get fresh.

My father, who is inclined to be rather strict with me, disliked him from the first and warned me of marrying at all.

I [illegible] and told him I had no thought of me. I had not written him for a month, [illegible] another girl.

DEAR VERA

Without saying me or answering the [illegible] of information, he [illegible] in a very much angry letter, in which he [illegible] me of [illegible] and [illegible] my marriage [illegible] his marriage [illegible] and [illegible] Dominican [illegible] my dear, [illegible] how [illegible] any woman's [illegible] that [illegible] to consent.

MARRIAGE OR COLLEGE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

No thunder with myself? I have [illegible] graduate [illegible] want to marry my girl [illegible] go through the [illegible] years.

$8000 in unpaid salary and World Series fees last July and hid somewhere in Lawrence, Mass. Since then, though a score of news beagles have sniffed at his trail, and his whereabouts have been variously fixed in Orleans, at Lake Cochichewick or stealing into his house at 113 Garden street, no one has been able to find him or pry a syllable about his location from his friends and relatives . . .

Rhode Island's race track squabble may be just the nudge needed to topple over the top-heavy structure of New England horse and dog gambling. The avariciousness of several track promoters in milking the public cow so furiously that its udders have begun to inflame is bound to cause a revulsion. If racing is to live more than a few years the commissions of the three neighboring states must arrive at a mutual working agreement whereby a reasonable number of gambling days will be alloted to each track, with suitable breath-catching spells in between. New England cannot stand the present pace—204 days of horse racing between May Day and Armistice Day, and an indigestible mass of dog evenings, which have vacuumed more than $30,000,000 out of the public pocket book. A word to the wise is superfluous.

Kelley Turns Vocational Amateur

[illegible]

During the game I asked Larry Kelley about the much mooted Kelley-to-Kelly episode of the Cornell-Yale game last autumn, when he was reported to have greeted Field Judge Dan Kelly with, "If you are as good an official as I am a football player you're O. K." Larry replied, "I've been accused of all kinds of sass. That is among the many things I did not say." (Are you listnin' Elisha?)

Mr. Brown Sees It Through

[illegible]

Indeed, the muscle mangling industry having suffered from pernicious anemia since Dick Shikat snatched out Dan O'Mahony's liver and lights in May of 1935, the Bowser brotherhood is wasting away to a skeleton of its once adipose girth. Last season it was pinched painfully betwees the upper and nether millstones of failing box office receipts and the Garden's nightly nut, showing hardly a profit in any of its 22 shows. And since the Gordon Aggregation of Astonishing Human Oddities has leased the Arena, Paul must either depend on the Garden to amputate its rent by 50 per cent or move to Mechanics where the fee is $600. One trusts that the Garden will be charitable, since Paul, as a man, sums up to pretty fair figures and it would not look becoming to have the discoverer of Gus Sonnenberg, Ed Don George, Dan O'Mahony and similar singularities playing second violin to a lesser virtuoso.

Jones Succeeds O'Rourke at Malden

Forty-eight boys—the best [illegible] group of 150 who reported for practice—are working out today at Pearl St. Stadium under Coach Warren McGuirk in preparation for Malden high school's [illegible] game with Wakefield, Saturday.

I've been set down for six months," he said, "and that amounts to about four years of a jockey's riding career. Since then I have behaved myself and I think I ought to have another chance."

Mr. Bradley told J. R. Bradley, for whom Meade was contract rider, had a right to establish the jockey said, "and I was losing money so I began to bet on other horses although there were seven outside horses.

In two races where I bet on other horses the horses I rode won. I think if I was such a crook I wouldn't have won those races."

Story of Achilles | McCoy's Tendon
Famous Warrior | Amateur Boxing

By JACK CONWAY

I AM REMINDED of the story of the hero of Homer's Iliad by the report of Dr. Martin H. Spellman of Commonwealth Avenue to the effect that Al McCoy, New England heavyweight champion, is suffering from an injury to the achilles tendon of his left heel.

MR. BOSTON

Achilles was the son of Peleus and Thetis. At birth Achilles' mother held him by one heel and dipped him in the Styx. In this way she believed she would make her son invulnerable, and enable him to participate in the Grecian wars without being in danger of death or injury.

The water of the Styx didn't touch Achilles' heel on account of the fact it was covered by his mother's hands.

Later when Achilles grew into young manhood, he went to the wars. He was the ideal of the youth of Greece on account of his strength and valor.

Achilles came through numerous battles unmarked, but was finally fatally wounded by a poisoned arrow shot by Paris which struck the tendon behind his heel. It was the spot where his mother had held him when she had dipped him in the Styx.

U.S. Wheat Sold for Export

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

One of the most encouraging domestic trade developments in many months is a feature in today's news dispatches. Foreign purchases of United States wheat are reviving our grain markets and all indications point to the export of substantial quantities of wheat during the current season despite a disappointing start.

On Tuesday, for instance, foreign buyers took 700,000 bushels, estimated as the largest single days purchasing since the 1931-32 season. The lack of foreign demand for American winter wheat is generally conceded as the principal reason for the collapse in domestic markets. Early in the season the outlook for a bumper crop in this country and reports of unusually short harvests abroad, built up a good deal of optimism regarding exports. When these hopes failed to materialize disappointment took its natural toll of prices. Now that it has ended in a measure, although belated, those in the trade who are optimistically inclined will find the situation a bit brighter as supplies abroad are insufficient for between harvest needs.

The French franc is tumbling once again, touching the lowest level in a decade today, and the cables say financial experts predict even lower levels. Regardless of the immediate consequences to markets and trade in France and this stands out above all others; it means inflation with more of it promised to come. This threat is heightened by reports that the government currency stabilization fund has at least temporarily abandoned attempts to bolster it. The vicious spiral of money debasement, whether willingly sought or not, thus continues in the great nations of the world. And so far no one has made a sincere, open and determined effort to reverse the trend. Observers how long artificial boom will be delayed under such conditions.

In the instance of France the causes to which the depreciation of the franc are ascribed are many and varied. It is rather a case of too much paper money and too much Mediterranean crisis. The strange political situation, the internal political situation, the labor troubles, the effect on the adverse trade balance, each represents a bona fide cause for depreciation, but the cumulative depreciating effect of all is responsible.

* * *

As these comments on the market are written opening prices are just starting over the tape and little is known on the ultimate course of prices for the session. However, this we do know: the market by all the best rules should not work higher today. It owes orthodoxy something, and that is a nearby test of recent form. If a reaction is the final result, and it takes place on declining volume, which will be really sound evidence the fires of liquidation are dying down, the net result will be the tracing of a substantial looking rally base on the charts. One that will be capable of supporting any structure of the proportions warranted by the vicious decline from the summer highs.

In the event that the writer proves a orthodox market action prevails, he wants to caution the possible rally might prove short lived. The new upside limit favored on the Dow Jones industrial average is 171-175. This area is a meeting of previous ideas on the upside in the event a good base forms. It should be regarded as temporary, for prices at least and will undergo a change as market conditions warrant.

Notebook: Should the writer prove wrong regarding a reactionary today today and an additional rally puts in an appearance, he will look on it in another thing that was forced and strained . . . Consequently, advice is now offered, should it happen, to immediately cut down stock holdings . . . Because there will then be very real danger of prices not treating to new low levels all around . . . And without too much delay . . . Our opinion will be thrown out of gear in the event a noticeable increase in volume accompanies a high today about that of Tuesday . . . For both industrials and rails . . . In which event we will sell when 120 is approximated.

Sears, Roebuck Sales Increase

Chicago, Sept. 15 (AP)—Sears, Roebuck and Co., reported today sales the last two weeks of August and the first two weeks of September showed improvement over the previous four week period.

Sales for the eighth period of the company's fiscal year, August 14 to September 10, totaled $29,937,242, a new record for the period and 7.8 per cent better than sales a year ago. Seventh period sales totaled $36,266,551.

For the first eight periods, January 30 to September 10, sales totaled $231,580,878, an increase of 15 per cent compared with a year ago, and also a new company record.

STOCK Market STEADY

EARLY LOSSES CANCELLED

New York, Sept. 15—The stock market today cancelled in large measure early declines which ran to as much as 2 points. At the start trading was brisk with U. S. Steel and Chrysler down more than 2 points on heavy dealings. Before long selling was stemmed and the market steadied with the aid of buying which fell first to specialties and later to oils.

Mid improvement was most pronounced in Bethlehem, Crucible Steel, General Motors, Yellow Truck, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Marx, Case, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Consolidated Edison, Electric Power & Light, Kennecott, Johns-Manville, General Electric, Seaboard Oil, Texas Corp., Pure Oil, Sears, Fw. Coca-Cola and Anaconda.

Up from early lows but lacking energy and were Steel, U. S. Rubber, International Telephone, Anaconda, International Nickel, National Dairy, American Can, Standard Brands, Radio and American Steel Foundries.

The stock market was narrow and quiet. Cotton and grains were also steady. The stage drops in the Far East and renewed anxiety over Europe's political situation also contributed to the uncertainty.

Price fluctuations and shrinkage of offerings abandoned early in the day was over.

The stock market was under active pressure much of the time as the aftermath of failure of directors to meet.

CURRENT TOPICS

At the start of trading Wall Street men found evidence of slackening industrial speed.

Although trade recurrence has stopped, production has not yet been sufficient to prevent the further shrinkage of mill backlogs and also decline in operations to an estimated 80 per cent," Iron Age said.

Output of the steel consumption remains high in a number of industries, the survey reported, but production generally would shortly be reinforced by orders from the motor producers.

Production of steel ingots for the week ended Sept. 11 was down 5.2 per cent from the previous week and 8.2 per cent from the like 1936 week the Edison Electric Institute reported.

Increased French budgetary difficulties were reflected in a drop of 31½ of a cent in the franc to the lowest point in more than a decade. The pound sterling was down 1-16 of a cent at $4.94 13-16.

Francs Again Weaken to New Low

Paris, Sept. 15 (AP)—A heavy selling wave today sent the franc to a new low point in its lowest depth in more than a decade.

The franc closed at 2.5935 to the dollar and 144.75 to the pound sterling. In terms of the dollar that is 3.07 cents. The government currency stabilization fund has abandoned attempts to bolster it for the time being and hopes to prevent it from falling beyond present at least and will undergo a change as market conditions warrant.

The plunge marked a new level in the steady devaluation march of the franc since Premier Raymond Poincaire stabilized in 1928 at 25.51 to the dollar, or 3.91 cents, after a period of severe financial unrest.

The drop was the sharpest the franc has taken in more than 10 years. The quotation of 25.65 to the dollar is a new low level since devaluation, compared with last Friday's bottom of 25.35 which was the lowest since 1926.

The closing wave generally was attributed to the accumulation of factors including the grave Mediterranean crisis, the internal political situation, domestic financial troubles and the adverse trade balance.

ECONOMIC PLANNING

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

Copyright, 1937, by Boston Evening American

New York, Sept. 15—Recent financial moves suggest that "economic planning" at Washington has supplanted old-fashioned market sponsorship in Wall street. In the old days, after panicky episodes in the stock market, it was customary to look to the house on the corner — Morgan & Company—to do something to organize the "constructive" forces.

This was not only true in the panic of 1907, when the elder J. Pierpont Morgan seized the reins of leadership in a banking crisis but was also the rule in October 1929, when the prolonged bull cycle suddenly collapsed.

At present, it should be hastily recorded parenthetically, the machinery has occurred which cannot be considered an intermediate movement rather than a major change of trend. But the significant point is that leadership in a major period is not coming from the money changers, but rather from the government. In highlighting the new setup in terms of a managed currency as a phase of economic planning, it should be noted that the Treasury-Reserve policy announced last December was not only to hasten the orderly retirement of the devalued dollar.

The powerful effect of the new setup was to check the rise in prices and to make easy credit still easier at a time when the administration's economic experts might make a slight temporary profit. In addition, it left open market committee of the federal reserve system free to act independently against the excessive credit expansion through government bonds.

HAS OTHER ACES

Some revelations of policies it is considered best for the public to know are still withheld. Treasury with its stabilized gold, further mark up in the price of gold and big government equalization fund and various trust funds. The government has other special weapons at its disposal for taking in a more conciliatory way about business and reducing public expenditures.

Experienced traders traditionally seek to time beneath the obvious in order to anticipate the next significant change. Accordingly, their initial response to stimuli from Washington is to ask themselves what is the why's behind the situation was so weak that it needed manipulative support.

NEW TECHNIQUE

Observers noted that with private commodities restrained, official commodities at Washington were operating with vigor. The fresh technique may for has been exemplified through the credit.

The first move toward the end of August, forcing the dislocation of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to the unprecedented low rate of 1 per cent and to buy as well as sell government bonds, had not only proved effective in marketing stocks and bonds more appropriately to the public.

According to the current week ended with fresh stimulants from the Federal Reserve Board in raising reserve requirements. Prior to the time of the Treasury-Reserve announcement on policy, assisted the December 31 deadline for new policy to become effective, the declined 2.6 points.

The powerful effect of the new setup was to check the rise in prices and to make easy credit still easier at a time when the administration's economic experts might make a slight temporary profit. In addition, it left open market committee of the federal reserve system free to act independently against the excessive credit expansion through government bonds.

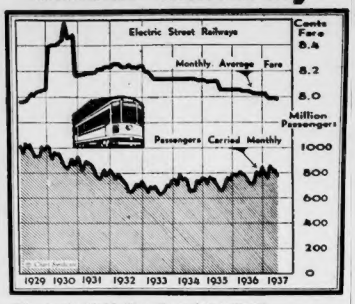
Street Railway



Prior to the World War, the street railway was the principal means of urban transportation. In recent years, independent or company-owned motor bus lines have replaced the street cars, although some progress in holding traffic has been made through the use of modernized equipment.

The monthly average fare charged by electric street railways has declined to mid-1929 levels. Passenger traffic this year is running above recent corresponding periods, but is still under levels prior to 1932.

ELECTRIC POWER

Output Up 6.2 P.C. Over 1936 Week

New York, Sept. 15 (AP)—Production of electricity in the United States for the week ended September 11 was 2,154,276,000 kilowatthours, a decline of 7.2 per cent from 2,320,982,000 kilowatthours last week, but a gain of 6.2 per cent over 2,098,924,000 kilowatthours in the like week a year ago, the Edison Electric Institute reported today.

A fallon in the decline which was more than seasonal was the latter that the Associated Press index of production, with 1929-30 taken as 100, fell to 121.8 from 125.2 the preceding week and 116.3 a year ago. In the principal fields of demand for industrial and long-term credit stood at 116.3.

The range for recent years follows:

	1937	1936	1935	1934	1933
High	129.2	119.8	105.7	97.5	91.9
Low	116.3	102.0	94.1	91.9	80.2

The institute reported the following comparisons of increases in major geographic regions: New England 2.6, Middle Atlantic 8.0, Central Industrial 5.4, West Central 3.3, Southern States 4.5, Rocky Mountain 14.7, Pacific Coast 5.9.

Mints to Buy Silver Mined Before Dec. 31

Washington, Sept. 15 (INS)—President Roosevelt today approved a proposal by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau to give American mines the 77.67 cent an ounce bonanza price on all domestic newly mined silver purchased up to midnight Dec. 31.

The action was taken to assure American mining concerns that silver production up to Dec. 31 but which will not be turned over to the mints until 1938 would get the full benefit of the bounty price.

Many mining concerns had decided to close down operations this fall unless assured of the bounty price fixed by proclamation signed by President Roosevelt in 1933.

The President and Morgenthau have yet to act whether the proclamation will be extended.

Constitution Day

GOVERNOR HURLEY'S proclamation designating Friday as Constitution Day concerns every man, woman and child in Massachusetts.

The Governor states that the country's founders, planning the nation that has endured for a century and a half, had to choose between two types of government, one the antithesis of the other.

The people of that day and we who are their heirs COULD RULE.

Or the people COULD BE RULED, as the populations were and still are in Europe and Asia.

Wisely, as the proclamation says, the founders decided upon a form of government aptly described by Abraham Lincoln as "of the people, for the people and by the people."

Born of that decision was the Constitution. And for the first time in world history there was a WRITTEN GUARANTEE of the laws and principles fundamental to the existence of free men in a free land.

But the Constitution did more than merely create and set up a new government. EVERY SENTENCE IN THAT DOCUMENT WAS DESIGNED TO CURB THE INSATIABLE THIRST OF POLITICIANS FOR POWER IN THAT DAY AND THIS DAY.

That is why now, in the year 1937, we alone among all the countries of the world have been able to resist tyranny and oppression.

That is why also we remain a self-governing people, safe in the knowledge that all that America has attained and all to which America may aspire found a clear expression in that magnificent summation of principles and rights bequeathed to us as our Constitution.

It is, therefore, our duty as grateful citizens and heirs to take an active part in Friday's ceremonies in Boston, or at least to witness them.

The City Council Acts

THE Boston City Council wisely interests itself in the problem of depraved men who prey on children.

The result is an order, unanimously approved, calling upon the Legislature to provide a mandatory sentence ranging from 20 years to life imprisonment for any person convicted of a criminal attack on a minor.

The Council further recommends that no individual taken into custody for molesting a child be committed to a psychopathic hospital for a ten-day observation.

Senators and Representatives ought to consider these suggestions. They are a proper approach to a serious situation.

Our existing laws dealing with sex offenses are inadequate. No one doubts this. Everybody knows that men arrested for depravity are frequently turned loose without adequate punishment or treatment.

Consequently one crime leads to a more serious one, and eventually children are murdered.

As City Councillor John J. McGrath tells us, we have too long ignored the most dangerous of all criminals. It is time we woke up and did something.

Business Strangulation

CITY COUNCILLOR Sidney Rosenberg is undoubtedly right in his contention that the contemplated increase in Boston taxicab insurance rates will oblige numerous drivers to seek welfare.

There can be no doubt that the $325 assessment on each cab proposed by Commissioner Francis J. DeCelles approaches the point of penalizing business out of existence.

With gasoline taxes, oil taxes, municipal taxes and the various registration and license fees at their present level, a driver must carry many passengers in the course of a day to make his bare operating expenses.

In fact, the time has come when it costs about as much to keep a vehicle on the road as it does to buy it.

Commissioner DeCelles should listen to the protests that are coming from all parts of the State. The people will tolerate an excessive burden for a year or so, but they will not tolerate it forever.

And, unless substantial relief from rising rates is provided, next year may give us emphatic proof that Massachusetts wants neither compulsory insurance nor a commissioner to administer it.

Calls School 'Tomfoolery'

FLORA ALLEN STUDLEY, the 15-year-old Cranston, R. I., girl who married a WPA worker twice her age, goes back to school with little hanger for knowledge.

"Home work!" she is quoted as saying. "Me wasting my time with that school tomfoolery while I got a man to take care of!

"I know what they'll do down there in school. They'll teach me to cook and sew a lot of things poor folks never have and can't get."

Flora isn't the first girl who voiced that opinion. Many young women have. Study is nonsense. Lessons are wasted effort. Other things are far more important. The complaint is familiar to hundreds of parents.

But Flora is wrong, as other girls have been wrong. There is nothing more important than study, for this is a highly competitive world and no one can know too much.

The best proof that going to school pays is that practically every girl and boy who left it at an early age regrets the departure in later life.

It will be interesting to interview Flora ten years from now and find out what she thinks then.

The Knights Are Right

STATE officers and deputies of the Knights of Columbus, meeting in Boston, commended the recently enacted Massachusetts law prohibiting inquiry as to the religious affiliations of applicants for public school positions.

That was the proper thing to do; the statute should be praised, not only by Catholics but by all creeds and beliefs.

Bigotry and intolerance have no place in free America—especially not after the sad lessons we have learned from hate-ravaged Spain, Germany and Russia.

Equality for ALL religions is the keystone of democracy in the United States. This equality can never be abandoned.

Wake Up!

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

O. O. McIntyre

New York, Sept. 15.—Among Tasks most amusing carnival stars are a big Glasgow boy and the sprightly ingénue little troupers are playing. They were always peeking out from behind some big name to herald their happy lines. It is a fine tribute to the artistry of Tasso Trapp that he actually won the big boy's heart.

And a shining illustration of just how much the boys stand in with Tasso is the fact that he was chosen by Dale Carnegie, author of "How to Win Friends and Influence People," to address the gathering of business men at the Hotel Astor. During the question period the speaker was interrupted by a man who, lecturing that everything was going to be all right, got off to fairly rosied optimism.

His Happy Jack philosophy became a football for the audience to kick around. He was the subject of many cartoon waggeries for the moment. Unperturbed, The reviser needed him for the outlook in song lyrics. But the smiling little man kept right on smiling.

And apparently he has grinned smears through. For he is said to be garnering enormous sums through his books, lectures and broadcasts. Some say his income for the present year will total a quarter million. He has two new books on the fire and an avalanche of lecture offers.

That recent movie Artists and Models provoked a cinema caper that brought the leading artists of America to the screen as actors. It happened this wise. Russell Patterson, who was working on it, had the idea that instead of having extras at the Artists Ball dressed as Rembrandt, Rubens, Raphael, etc., why not get some living artists on the set?

The outcome was that John La Gatta, Arthur William Brown, McClelland Barclay, Peter Arno and Rube Goldberg went to the coast and appeared in a scene with Jack Benny and Sandra Storme. England's most photographed model, all doing a drawing of her. They didn't make the boys dress like the old masters, although they framed them when they got there and made them believe for a while they were to wear Prince Charming costumes, with laces and ruffles and such la de dah.

Rube Goldberg had a goofy scene with Benny that turned out so well every one advised him to get an agent. In fact, he did have two offers before leaving for New York. In the scene Benny says: "Hello, who are you?" Rube is supposed to say: "I'm Goldberg, Rube Goldberg." On the first take Rube looked blankly at him—he couldn't think of his name.

Although it was not Rube's first acting experience. He used to do a skit with Gilda Gray at matinées and over the Percy Williams circuit.

Autograph hunters are often pests to actors and actresses, but a strange reversal of form took place while the artists were making the scenes. All the players, from the stars to the extras, were electrified and puppety boys were after the makers for autographs.

One of Arthur William Brown's proudest possessions is a card of admittance reading: "Arthur William Brown, actor."

Employment agencies say the steadiness of domestic help is due largely to the fact that help can bring who they quickly and without show have been utterly spoiled. Working for the stage and actors, singers and radio stars, also employers are awash in sentimentality and they feel that it is going to be all right if we do it fairly in good optimism.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Elsie Robinson

The folks don't know what's come over Hollywood. Billy Haines, leading male star of the grandest, Good-looking, smartly gowned dream to ever grace the screen, has just been kicked out of the movie colony for good and all. Not because he's a homosexual—he isn't. He's a healthy, normal male who likes women and has been married to one of the loveliest of them for years. But since the first of the year his whole attitude has changed. He's become a snob. He's developed a swollen head. He's grown so cocksure of himself and his importance to the box office that he's become impossible to work with. He's antagonized producers, directors, writers, actors, actresses and everybody else connected with the making of motion pictures. And now he's out on his ear.

Which is all unique. Everywhere you'll find them good looking, intelligent youngsters who have made a success of life by hitching their wagons to a star. Married and unmarried, these qualities have always gone hand in hand. Why should they not with Billy Haines? Why should this emotional blank in him have developed?

Not only is it causing pain in the home and school, but it is also filling our prisons. Never have there been so many young criminals.

WHAT'S THE ANSWER?

HOW DO THEY GET THAT WAY?

From behind those very prison walls comes an answer which should set many a parent thinking. Claire Moniart gives it in "THE SPECTATOR," a semi-monthly publication written by the inmates of the State Prison of Southern Michigan.

Why is Modern Youth so often emotionally paralyzed? Here's why, claims Claire Moniart:

"Press the button on your flash light, press it repeatedly. What happens? At first it flashes brightly; then it grows dim. You have exhausted the batteries—it no longer responds. This is a lesson in electricity; it is also a lesson in psychology."

Then Claire Moniart applies that lesson to our carefully regimented young:

"Talk with them and you will find their minds are bright and normal; their bodies healthy. BUT THERE IS SOMETHING WRONG WITH THEIR EMOTIONS. Talk of airplanes, automobiles, baseball or any other sport, and they will speak your language.

"BUT TALK OF FITY, REVERENCE, RESPONSIBILITY OR RESPECT OF PROPERTY AND YOU WILL GET NO SPARK. LIKE YOUR FLASH LIGHT, THEY ARE DIM. Why?

"BECAUSE ITS NERVOUS SYSTEM HAS BEEN SHIELDED AND SHOCKED BY TOO MANY SENSATIONS, says he.

Constant pressure on immature nerves by constant, vulgar excitement, sensational details, divorce, daily assaults, thefts, kidnaping, liquor and dope—these influences batter and weaken young minds the day it is born, make it dull and blase long before its time.

"What happens when you hurt sensation upon sensation at your nerves? The same thing happens when you press your flashlight continuously. The batteries weaken mechanical or physical—cease to respond. The flashlight, or the youngster, is burnt out."

Want an example of burnt-out batteries? Many youngsters who were physically sound, mentally and MORALLY EXHAUSTED?

If you want to keep your children safe from demoralizing excitement, devitalizing sensation, STAY AWAY FROM IT YOURSELF.

Give up your constant round of poker games, roadhouse or country club whoopee.

Make yourself be satisfied with quiet, self-sustaining evenings.

GIVE YOUR OWN AND YOUR YOUNGSTERS' BATTERIES A CHANCE TO RECHARGE OR ELSE—!

That's That

By Bruce Gustin

As surprising as the announcement by George R. Welch of Northeastern University that the normal human eye can see 949,000 different colors is the statement that there are that many colors to see.

The ordinary person thinks of the "seven colors of the rainbow" and concludes that is all the colors there are. But the scientist says there are 800 different degrees of IRRILLIANCE in colors, 156 hues and 220 degrees of saturation. From the combination of these factors he gets 949,000 "different colors."

The "no-fix" traffic ticket policy in Cleveland is acclaimed a success. Collections of fines for parking violations increased 30 per cent the first half month this policy was in operation. Refusing to "fix" traffic tags unquestionably is the right policy. But increases in the amount of fines collected for traffic violations show widespread violations of the law.

Officials are prone to point to increases in fines collected as evidence of efficient enforcement of traffic laws. But that is wrong. With efficient enforcement, the number of violations would be reduced.

Secretary of Labor Perkins is talking about legislation to prevent "unfair" discrimination against industrial workers "on the basis of age." She says that while many industries will retain workers after they pass the 45-year mark the general trend is to refuse to hire those who are over 45. This policy, she fears, may interfere with the social security program under which benefits do not become payable until the worker is 65.

But it is difficult to see how Congress can pass a law compelling employers to hire men who, on account of age or anything else, do not measure up to their requirements. There are many important things in this life which can't be corrected just by passing a law.

Reading that six desperadoes used machine guns to shoot their way out of a police trap near Guilford, Miss., one naturally wonders WHERE and HOW did they get these weapons. Criminals seem to have no difficulty in obtaining machine guns. No private citizen has any legitimate use for such a weapon.

If lawmakers and law-enforcing agencies would get together and buy themselves to deal with this situation they could make things so hot that there would be mighty few machine guns in private hands

Bible Text: A wise man will hear and will increase learning, and he will attain unto wise counsels.—Proverbs I., 5. Suggested by the Rev. Sames Anslie, Methodist Episcopal Church, Chicopee.

Loves and Governments

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

Edwin C. Hill

The throne of Rumania is visibly tottering. Whether or not it falls depends upon one or both of two contingencies. Will the Iron Guard, supported by the Peasant Party, take decisive steps and, or, will King Carol, himself the son of his red-haired Rumanian Magda Lupescu?

The recent arrival and swift departure of Prince Nicholas was taken by many as a sign that the explosion was coming, but your correspondent is informed that it cannot long be delayed.

History does repeat itself, and the daughters of Eve do have a way of making history. That goes with the day that red-haired Helen of Troy started her backslapement of Prince Paris and ran out on her trusting husband.

The fact reporter has no day was a sad named Homer something or other. He covered that sad assignment. And from the files I uncover this item from one of his colleagues about guy Helen and the row she caused:

"What men can blame the Greeks and Trojans to endure for so admired a dame, so many miseries and so long."

Of much subdued dames I believe the characterization is approximately Chapman's translation of Homer's Iliad. Those kept right on going pretty steadily down through history, sometimes their ways were sad and sometimes full of fun, as when Lily Langtry, the "Jersey Lily," slipped a chicken of the debt to Nero and "Set Freely the Fetters of Wives."

HISTORY REPEATS

It is an old story, the story the joys of kings and the political knock-back. It has rippled through the ages and it is fleeting here and there in our own day. Perhaps the most notorious example in this country is that of Peggy O'Neil, a barmaid's daughter, who married President Jackson's Secretary of War and Jackson's cabinet wide open and wrecked the political career of John C. Calhoun.

There was nothing against Peggy, but a lot of snotty old ladies in Washington got a fuss and made all the trouble, finding a bar sinister, as in spats, in Peggy's parentage.

Grover Cleveland's affairs of the heart became a rankling and triumphant issue in the Republican campaign for the Presidency. That was our first big tryout with a press and senatorial morality. We showed that we could not stand to see action when it came to an illicit love affair, vulgarity and taste and there was all sorts of fun in Woodrow Wilson's day and in Harding's.

Staunch and four-square Grover blew all the smoke away when he got around to it by a blunt, honest statement of the tragedy, verification by anybody who wanted the truth.

We had Frank Crummit cave in in Frankie and Johnny".

"This story has no moral, this story has no end; this story only goes to show there ain't no good in men."

Don't put all the blame on the Red Heads.

March of Events

By Benjamin DeCasseres

Events march on. One of the most significant was the 150th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution Friday.

Let us celebrate the day. It would be to read the Constitution. REALIZE that all the liberties—religious, political, economic and social—are guaranteed in that document.

Then make a silent resolution that the spirit and letter of that document shall be kept inviolate. Let us be offered only by amendments prescribed by the Constitution. ETERNAL VIGILANCE IS THE PRICE OF OUR LIBERTIES.

Two members of the Harvard Medical School are leading the fight for modification in the New England Journal of Medicine say there is no use in alcoholic prohibition repeal.

It is a well-attested fact that, just before prohibition, 15 inmates per year or so, chronic alcoholic cases in our hospitals were steadily decreasing.

When the Eighteenth Amendment said "thou shalt not drink" it was a challenge to the American people the usual thing happened. Millions who never drank before went to it, and what the forbidden liquids tasted like.

And that is the reason why even now, after the repeal there are still thousands of cases of chronic alcoholism. We are still suffering from the curse of prohibition—alcoholically, socially and financially.

Wanted: A MILITARY PEACE song.

Sounds contradictory, doesn't it?

But what is consistency to the American League Against War and Fascism when WE WILL NOTE NOT against Communism? That organization is now trying to get a peace parade going with "anti-war or anti-Fascist activities." It must, according to the League, be "militant" and "suitable for mass singing, preferably with a MILITANT MARCH tempo."

Why not one of the marching songs of the colonial Soviet army which we have in our files? Or, even if it has to lay the world in ashes to get it?

The most astonishing phenomenon of modern times is the rise of POLITICAL MYSTICISM. It is called Communism, Nazism, Socialism and Fascism. These mystical beliefs all have their roots in the belief that a DIVINE LIKE THAT THE STATE IS OF DIVINE ORIGIN and that the individual is a cipher who must be molded or be exterminated.

This political mysticism is already a religion. It numbers many followers. It is our supreme danger, for we Americans are BEREFT OF MYSTICISM. In America's democratic doctrines, on EXPERIENCE which teaches that the state is but a tool for the purpose of creating INDIVIDUALS, keeping HANDS OFF as far as possible.

One of the oddities of modern warfare—an era of "pirates," "undeclared wars" and "peaceful" belligerency—is that China still goes on paying Japan her regular annual indemnity on the Boxer rebellion and also on the money she has borrowed since the Boxer days.

This money is raised from the taxpayers of China. It goes to Japan, Japan puts it in its treasury. The bombs are dropped on the Chinese taxpayers in Shanghai, Nanking and Canton.

Thus the Chinese help to finance their own death. It could be said too often—"Queer world, isn't it?"

One of the reasons why war will probably never be abolished is the fact that there is always a new generation of "old fools" who don't know any war by hearsay and not by EXPERIENCE.

Each new generation grows up like a new-born race. The young men who would like to go off to war today, in all countries have no recollection of 1914-18.

As a matter of fact, the movies and stories about that war which is rapidly being forgotten) fascinates them.

Acting for "thrills," war is always fresh to the unremembering mind of youth. And this is a great pity.
